

THE NEWS-BULLETIN

VOL. 17 No. 18

Mokena, Will County, Illinois, Friday, December 28, 1934

$1.50 Per Year In Advance

OLD TIME MOKENA CITIZEN DIES IN SLEEP

Mrs. Paul Rinke, Sr., aged 75 years, who was a resident of Mokena for half a century, was found dead in bed in her home early Sunday morning, death apparently being due to a heart attack. She had been in poor health for sometime.

Mrs. Rinke, nee Anna Grindler, was born October 28, 1859 in Kreis Neisse, Schleisien, Germany.

She was united in marriage with Paul Rinke in 1882. They immigrated to this country in 1884 and shortly afterward located in Mokena where they have resided since.

Surviving are the husband, four sons, Paul, Jr., Charles, Irvin and George; one daughter, Miss Elizabeth Rinke at home; four grandchildren. One daughter Mary, preceded the mother in death fourteen years ago. Other surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Agnes Klappauf, Chicago; Mrs. Amelia Gierth, Germany.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at the St. Mary Catholic church with Father Roman in charge. Burial was in the St. Mary Cemetery adjoining the church.

The floral tributes were profuse and beautiful.

Mrs. Rinke was a devoted wife and mother, and a kind neighbor. She will be greatly missed by those who knew her.

These Women Were Speechless

A coupe in which two young women were riding had a close call from crashing into on coming cars on the Lincoln highway when the car skidded on an icy spot in the pavement near the round barn east of New Lenox Thursday afternoon. The car in skidding hit a snow bank and was immediately bounced across the road into another snow bank and then whirled around so that the car was facing in the opposite direction from which it was going before skidding. The car was westbound. George Lorenz of Tinley Park was going east and stopped his car when he saw the antics the other car was going thru. When the coupe stopped its mad spin it was near the Lorenz car. The women escaped injury, but were so frightened they could not speak for a few minutes.

A big touring car was ditched between Frankfort and New Lenox the same day and two wreckers were required to pull it out of the ditch.

To Present Play For Frankfort Alumni

The Alumni of the Frankfort public school will give a three act mystery play at the Frankfort school auditorium January 18th. The name of the play is "Scare Crow Creeps". The Frankfort orchestra will furnish the music. This play is for the benefit of the Alumni.

Stockholders of Mokena Bank to Meet Jan. 9th

The annual stockholders meeting of the Mokena State Bank will be held January 9th.

Travel Over the World..

While Sitting in Your Easy Chair

NOT all of us can go, as we would like to, and see for ourselves the strange peoples who live in foreign lands and the wonders of nature that lie beyond the horizon.

It is for such stay-at-homes as us that the writers and travelers of the National Geographic Society are scouring the world for interesting accounts of the "far places" which we would like to see, and their descriptions of what they have seen and what they would have us see are appearing regularly in this newspaper.

Look for the travel articles in this paper. Then tell your friends about it for they will be as interested in this feature as you are.

Monee Bank Pays First Dividend

Edward J. Barrett, State Auditor, announces that he has authorized payment of a 30 per cent dividend, amounting to $51,493.63, to the depositors of the Eastern Will County Bank at Monee. This is the first dividend to be paid since the bank was closed. The checks were given out December 22nd.

In addition to this dividend $14,360.00 has been paid on bills payable.

This dividend was made from funds acquired by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. William L. O'Connell is receiver for the bank.

Special Speaker to Address Orland Club

The Orland Park Women's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting in the James Creer hall in Orland Park on January 3rd at 2 p. m. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Edgar Graves, International chairman and she will present a speaker who will speak on present day problems.

T. Y. O. News Flashes

The Tinley Youths Organization held its regular meeting Wednesday, December 26th at the residence of Henry Boldt. Many new members joined the club at this meeting. The club is still looking around for a place to hold their regular meetings. The regular meetings are held every Wednesday night at 7:30 p. m.

Come on the rest of you boys and join this fast growing club and have some fun.

Flash!! Gervie was caught walking a couple of girls home from the singing practice during the meeting Wednesday eve. Some exercise. Happy New Year!

To Hold Watch Night Services

Watch night get-together services will be held Monday, December 31st in the parlors of the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena. All are invited to attend. Entertainment for young and old. Come and bring your friends.

This Farmer Gets His Porkers Back

Last week several porkers were running loose along the pavement at the Seibrandt farm near Tinley Park. A light truck came along and stopped. Two men got out, loaded up the porkers and drove south to the Lincoln Highway. A neighbor of the farmer to whom the porkers belonged saw the bold steal and notified the rightful owners of the porkers. The owners followed up the truck and finally located the place where the truck driver lived. When the owner of the porkers appeared on the premises of the truck driver and asked for his pigs, a fight ensued in which the truck driver was knocked down and the porkers went back to the rightful owner.

Christmas Exercises Largely Attended

The Christmas eve exercises at the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena were very largely attended and the big edifice was filled to capacity. The Sunday School rendered an excellent program of 20 numbers. Christmas carols, songs, recitations, and other numbers made up an interesting program.

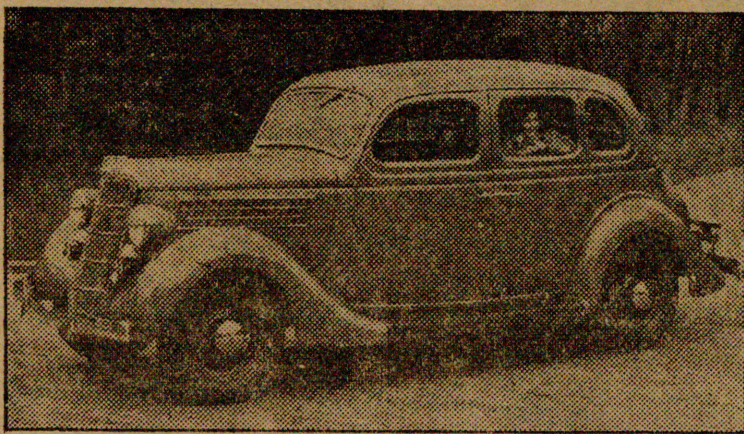

A pageant was presented by the members of the Sunday School. Gifts were distributed at the end of the program.

Rock Island Provides Smoker For Women

Lady smokers are being given special attention by the Rock Island railroad which has provided a special "smoker" for women commuters traveling from Joliet to Chicago on the "Bankers Special" which leaves Joliet at 7:45 a. m. The ladies will not have to invade the men's smoker to enjoy a cigaret, but will be able to retire to the special "smoker" for women.

The special car was added because of an increase in business and when women riding the trains began using it as a "smoker", officials of the line decided to grant the wish of their women patrons.

NEW FORD V-8 CAR ON DISPLAY

Pictured above is the new Ford De Luxe Fordor Sedan for 1935, which has just been announced. The new Ford V-8 cars have new, modern body lines and a combination of engineering improvements giving greater ease of control and increased riding comfort. These include relocation of the front spring and engine farther forward, and seating of the passengers between the wheels and closer to the center of the car to provide improved car weight balance and passenger weight distribution. Crankcase ventilation has been added to the Ford V-8 engine, of which more than 1,300,000 are now on the road.

NEW FORD WILL BE IN MOKENA SAT. A. M.

It will be in Mokena on Saturday morning! What? The new V-8 Ford, the much talked about and long awaited new car. The new Ford is to be on display in the show room of the Cooper & Hostert garage in Mokena this Saturday morning.

Elmer L. Cooper attended a big meeting of 3,000 Ford dealers and salesmen held Thursday in the hotel Sherman, Henry Ford and his son Edsel addressed the gathering by radio from Detroit.

Attends Sunday School 15 Years Without Missing Sun.

At the awarding of diplomas for perfect Sunday School attendance at the Mokena M. E. church during night, Miss Eloise Balaz set a record of perfect attendance not having missed a Sunday in fifteen years. The second highest was Erwin McGovney with a perfect attendance record of ten years. Both were given a seal and a book.

Orland Postmaster Reports 25 per cent Postal Increase

The Christmas mail was extra good in most postoffices. At Orland Park Postmaster A. J. Toelle reports an increase of 25 per cent over last year's Christmas postal business. Parcel post was especially heavy.

To Hold New Year's Party at Orland

A big New Year party is being planned for next Monday at John Burkhardt's place in Orland Park. A roast turkey with all the trimmings will be served. There will also be dancing. Every body is invited.

Many Cars Ditched Along Lincoln Way

Lincoln Highway was almost impassable Monday and Tuesday due to snow and the icy condition of the highway. Many cars were ditched between Frankfort and Joliet.

A snow plow finally restored the traffic conditions to normal.

New Lenox Women Contribute to Relief

The New Lenox Woman's Club met Thursday, December 27th in the home of Mrs. Henry Fink. A covered dish luncheon was served at noon. A meat dish was furnished by the hostesses. Those attending brought household articles which were donated to the New Lenox relief organization. After the program there was a Christmas gift exchange.

To Observe New Year

Next Tuesday being New Year's Day, all business places, banks and postoffices will remain closed.

FORMER MOKENA MERCHANT DIES AGED 81 YEARS

Daniel G. Knapp, 81 years old, died Thursday morning at 5 o'clock at his home 406 South Raynor ave., Joliet.

Mr. Knapp was born on a farm near Mokena on Nov. 14, 1853, and was married to Marie Felton on June 23, 1878 in Green Garden. The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1928. Mr. Knapp operated general stores in Frankfort, Mokena and Spencer and for the last 45 years he had lived in Joliet, being employed as a wholesale grocery salesman by the Durand and Casper Company.

He was a prominent member of the First Evangelical Lutheran church of Joliet, in which he has held membership for the past 45 years. Up until the time of his declining years he was active in the affairs of the church for 25 years as president of the church board.

Mr. Knapp is survived by his wife, two sons, Arthur of Wheaton and Alvin of Joliet; two brothers, Christ of Woodale and August of Redwood Falls, Minn.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the First Evangelical Lutheran church in Joliet. The Rev. John Goeken, pastor will officiate and interment will be made in Pleasant Hill cemetery in Frankfort.

New Lenox Boy Scouts Remember Needy Children

Needy children of New Lenox received toys, fruit and other gifts on Christmas eve at the New Lenox Boy Scout cabin on the historic camp grounds, where Fred Haynes, scoutmaster of the New Lenox troop, and scouts of the village played host to the invited children.

Since last Saturday a crew of boys under the supervision of Mr. Haynes, have emulated the Santa Claus shop in Joliet, repairing toys and other Christmas articles for Christmas. Donations were made to the group by charitable residents of New Lenox and surrounding area. Names of needy children were procured from the New Lenox branch of the Illinois Emergency Relief, and specified children were extended an invitation to the affair the first of its kind ever held in New Lenox or any of the nearby towns.

New Lenox M. E. Presents Pageant

A pageant "The Nativity" was presented by the New Lenox Epworth League at the New Lenox M. E. church Sunday evening. The annual Sunday School Christmas tree and exercises were held in the church Monday night.

Village Board Meeting A Week Later

As the regular meeting of the Mokena village board falls on New Year's Day, the meeting will be held on January 8th instead.

Mokena Garden Club Meets January 8th

The regular Mokena Garden Club meeting will be held on Tuesday, January 8th as the first Tuesday of the month comes on New Year.

Orland Contractor New Head of Lodge

Charles Hahenlein well known Orland Park Contractor will be installed as Master of the Blue Island Masonic Lodge this Saturday night.

Suggest Citizens Committee Aid In Opening Tinley School

The school situation is still the chief center of interest in Tinley Park and much activity will be seen in the next few weeks in an effort to get the local public school open again. Attorney Poorman of Chicago Heights, it is understood, is to represent the local board of education in their further deliberations and actions in the matter. The American Legion is taking a vital interest in the school situation in the southern part of Cook County.

Here are a number of suggestions which are being considered by the Tinley Park people:

That a mass meeting be set for an early date to which should be invited every citizen, every taxpayer, the American Legion, the PTA, Roy al Neighbors, fraternal organizations the Women's Club, the Garden Club the merchants, business men, bankers and the daily commuters.

In connection with this it has been suggested that an outline be prepared as the basis upon which a community association of this character could be formed and operated in conjunction with the local board of education.

It is suggested that three men and two women of unquestionable integrity and veracity who are well acquainted and have the implicit confidence of the community be asked to manage the affairs of such an association and to co-operate with the members of the school board. It has also been suggested that these officials be chosen at the mass meeting to act as directors of such an association with powers to choose their own officers from among themselves.

To empower this community association to solicit and to accept contributions from all sources, especially those from parents who are in a position to pay the pro-rata share of the expense of maintaining uninterruptedly the present constituted school in so far as they are capable of doing.

That the aggregate or total of all essential expenses; such as school teachers wages, supplies, etc., for the remainder of this year's school term be computed from the best information obtainable or as near as possible of estimating correctly the expenses in advance.

That one fifth or the portion of these aggregate expenses applicable to the month of January be collected in cash immediately and that for the balance four-fifths, the association be authorized to accept a parents signed pledge for the remainder, payable in equal monthly installments over the remainder of the school year. Obviously, should these pledges be forth coming to the parent, when the school is again operating on relief tax collected monies. In this connection, where the allocated portion is an undue hardship upon a particular parent, the directors of this association be empowered to make arrangements with the particular parent which are equitable and in line with the parents ability to contribute.

The Tinley Park school has approximately 200 pupils. Owing to those families who are on relief, we may assume that the parents of only one half the pupils are in a position to contribute their pro-rata share. By rule of thumbs calculations, a group of interested citizens claim they have figures that this school could be operated for approximately $500 per month at the maximum and perhaps for some what less, provided of course, that the teachers are willing to co-operate with the citizens who would like to open the school, during this period for political action on the relief fund matter. This would mean $5 per month per pupil to be contributed by each parent, a very minor sum considering the crisis the school is facing. Some parents who have three, four or five children in school obviously could not afford $15, $20 or $25 per month, therefore the directors of this proposed association should be given the power to work out some sort of equitable arrangement with these parents, say the proponents of the association plan.

The further suggestion is made that the directors of this community association be empowered and requested to work with the school board and to do all things that are essential or necessary to the maintenance of an open public school.

It is suggested that the directors of this association that is proposed, take such steps or action as they may deem necessary or expedient after the school has been opened and in operation to device ways and means if at all possible, which will permit the school board to recognize these contributions as legally binding obligations of the school district and refundable to the contributors when as, and if, the school finances permit.

Here Is Wishing All Our Readers

To All Our Patrons

WE SOLICIT YOUR ACCOUNTS
WE OFFER COMPLETE BANKING SERVICE
CONSULT US ON YOUR BUSINESS PROBLEMS

ORLAND STATE BANK

News Brevities of Illinois

New indictments charging John Navadunski, former director of relief in Taylorville, and his secretary, Mrs. Gladys Waymire, with fraud in the administration of local relief were returned by the Christian county grand jury. Also indicted in connection with the alleged fraud were three Taylorville merchants, Navadunski, as well as Mrs. Waymire, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Morgan, and her brother, Donald Morgan, were indicted more than a year ago. Navadunski, tried on a charge of obtaining goods by false pretense, was granted a new trial following his conviction. Mrs. Waymire and her mother never were brought to trial. Morgan and his son Donald pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy and were fined $100 each last January. Neither Navadunski nor Mrs. Waymire has been tried on several of the indictments. The case was reopened by the United States after complaints of laxity in prosecuting had been made to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Harry Muskat of Chicago, assistant attorney general, appeared before the grand jury in behalf of the government.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Faxon, of Plano, joined with them in celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Mr. Faxon is editor of the Kendall County News, Plano's only newspaper. For thirty-six years he has been secretary of the Twelfth District Republican Editorial association and is now an officer of the Illinois State Republican Editorial association. In 1896 he was appointed postmaster of Plano by President McKinley and continued in that position for twenty-seven years. Always active in civic affairs, Mr. Faxon has served as commissioner of highways, as school director, Kendall county fair director, organizer and director of the Illinois State Farmers' alliance, president of the Business Men's club, and secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Another camp for transient relief "clients," the fourth in the state, is being established about 20 miles north of Cairo in Alexander county. It was announced by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. About 270 men will construct their own living quarters, including three recreational facilities and storage sheds. Later they will work on a project sponsored by the state department of public works, widening three creeks, building levees, and draining bottom lands.

C. M. Roos of Cairo has been appointed a member of the state advisory committee of the work and rehabilitation division of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. It was announced by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission. Mr. Roos, who is superintendent and general manager of the Cairo water works, will represent the portion of the state south of Springfield.

Hopeful that new evidence which has been uncovered may lead to a solution of the slaying, authorities have reopened their investigation of the murder in Rockford six years ago of Miss Cordelia Gummshelmer, Rockford school teacher. Miss Gummshelmer was clubbed to death with an iron pipe wielded by an assailant who apparently climbed through the window of her apartment.

To improve the dairy herds at state institutions, Walter W. McLaughlin, director of the state department of agriculture, announced appointment of Raymond Buker of Oregon, Ill., to be a milk tester for the Illinois State Dairy Herd Improvement association. Mr. Buker will be employed full time with herds at state institutions, making tests of each cow for milk production, butterfat content, cost of feed and net returns from each dollar expended by the state for feeds.

Germaine S. Thompson, eighty-two, a resident of Aurora for 80 years, died at his home. He was employed for 55 years in the Aurora shops of the Burlington railroad and was retired 11 years ago. He was born at Dundee, Ill. Mr. Thompson is survived by his widow, Margaret; one son, Raymond, of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Evans of Denver, Colo.

Former Lieutenant Governor John G. Oglesby of Elkhart stirred state political circles by announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor in 1936. Former United States Senator Otis Glen and former Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom are considered possible starters.

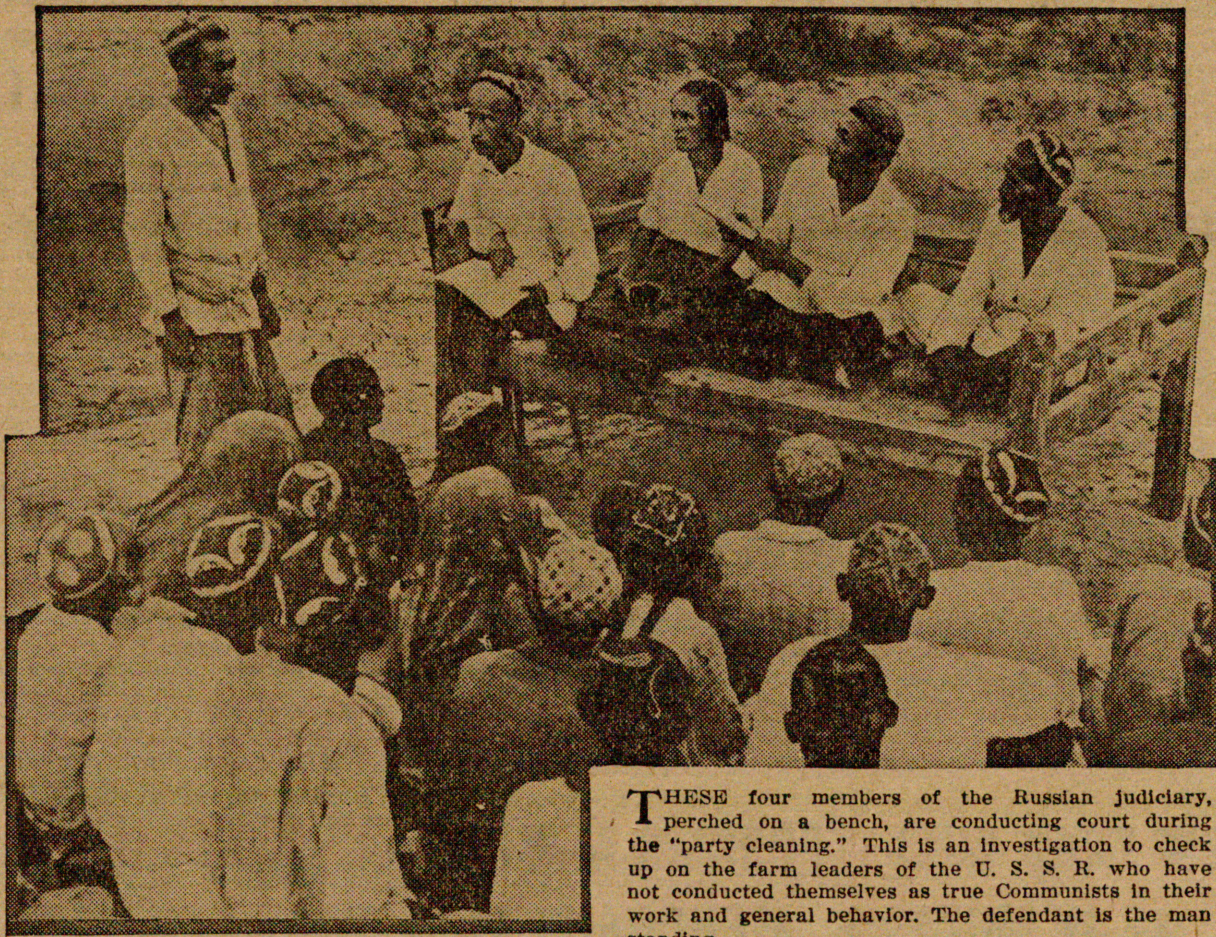

Assistant Chief of Police Homer Read was discharged by the Rockford board of fire and police commissioners. He had been charged by Mrs. Frances Ashworth of Rockford with accepting money from her for the protection of gamblers. Read labeled the charges a frame up. He said he will appeal the decision to the courts.

William F. Straub, sixty years old, of Freeport, suffered a stroke at Harrison and State streets, in Chicago, and died while being taken to the County hospital.

The Supreme court held valid the manner in which Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes printed the notice of the election at which the $30,000,000 bond issue to fund relief expenditures was approved. In doing so the court issued a writ of mandamus requiring John C. Martin, state treasurer, to sign the bonds, thus removing the last legal obstacle to their sale.

Walter P. Breen, for years a civic and political leader in North Chicago and a past president of the chamber of commerce there, died of heart disease at his home. He was sixty-three years old.

Outdoor Court for "Party Cleaning" in Russia

THESE four members of the Russian judiciary, perched on a bench, are conducting court during the "party cleaning." This is an investigation to check up on the farm leaders of the U. S. S. R. who have not conducted themselves as true Communists in their work and general behavior. The defendant is the man standing.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

YANK YANK THE NUTHATCH RETURNS

PERHAPS you can guess how pleased Peter Rabbit was one morning when, as he hopped over the old stone wall into the Old Orchard, he heard the voice of an old friend. It was the voice of Yank Yank, the Nuthatch, and while it was far from being sweet there was in it something of good cheer and contentment. At once Peter hurried in the direction from which it came.

On the trunk of a tree he caught sight of a gray and black and white bird about the size of Downy the Woodpecker. The top of his head and upper part of his back were shining black while the rest of his back was bluish gray. The sides of his head and his breast were white. The outer feathers of his tail were white, with black patches near their tips.

"Welcome Home, Yank Yank," Cried Peter.

But Peter didn't need to see how Yank Yank was dressed in order to recognize him. Peter would have known him if he had been so far away that the colors of his coat did not show at all. You see, Yank Yank was doing a most surprising thing, something no other bird can do. He was walking head first down the trunk of that tree, seemingly quite as much at home and unconcerned in the queer position as if he were right side up. He lifted his head and called a greeting which sounded very much like the repetition of his own name. Then he turned and began to climb the tree as easily as he had come down.

"Welcome home, Yank Yank!" cried Peter, hurrying up quite out of breath. Once more Yank Yank turned so that he was head down and his eyes twinkled as he looked down at Peter. "You're mistaken, Peter," said he. "This isn't home. I've simply come down here for the winter. You know home is where you raise your children, and my home is in the great woods further north."

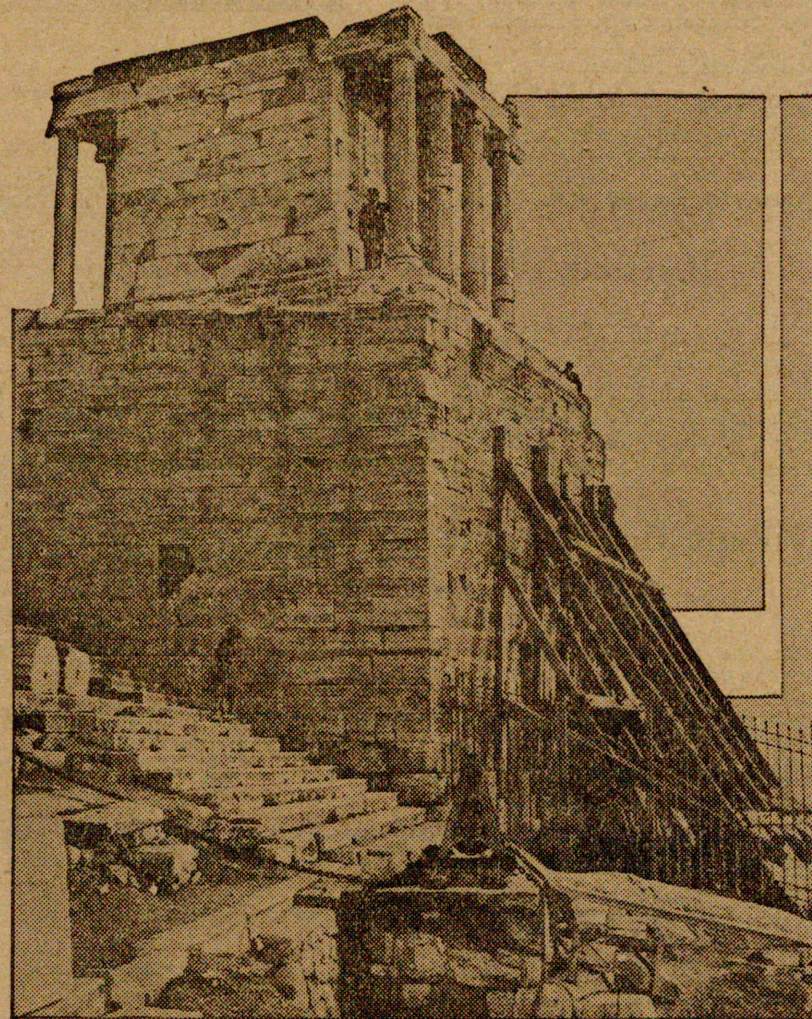

"Well, anyway, this is a kind of home. It's your winter home," protested Peter, "and I certainly am glad to see you back. The Old Orchard wouldn't be quite the same without you. Did you have a pleasant summer? And if you please, Yank Yank, tell me where you built your home and what it was like."

"Yes, Mr. Curiosity, I had a very pleasant summer," replied Yank Yank. "Mrs. Yank Yank and I raised a family of six, and that is doing a lot bet-

Farmer Builds Chapel

A tiny stone chapel named St. Mary's of the Oaks juts out of the summit of the highest hill on a farm at Cross Plains, Wis., as the result of an answered prayer. Tossing on what he believed to be his death bed, the farmer vowed that if he recovered he would construct a shrine out of gratitude. He made good his promise.

Bracing Up the Ruins of Greece

GREEK authorities discovered that the walls supporting the Temple of Victory on the Acropolis of Athens were in danger of crumbling. So they were propped up temporarily until a decision is reached whether they shall be entirely reconstructed.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

WITH NOTHING TO DO

A WELL known minister the other day preached a sermon on the need of modern men and women for solitude.

"Our mental powers," he said, "express themselves most efficiently in solitude." And he cited the work of successful people and creative artists the world over who have accomplished their best work alone, away from people.

Do we need solitude? It seems to me the question is will we tolerate it. For the one companionship that most people today seem zealously to avoid is their own.

It is one thing to like pleasant company and enjoy the society of our friends. But an honest observer of the modern scene must admit that the way the average woman clings to company and craves companionship for every bit of leisure time looks almost like a mania to get away from herself.

Why? Is it the rush and bustle of this modern age making so many demands on our time? Is it simply disinclination to give up something else to take the time for getting acquainted with ourselves? That would be an agreeable explanation, but one difficult of acceptance by anyone who has seen that look of consternation on the faces of women whom a "broken date" left "high and dry" with themselves.

It is not only from the viewpoint of work, accomplishment, that solitude is a good thing. Every one of us needs a little leisure time alone just for our growth as a person. As our bodies need time to rest from physical activity to rebuild, so our minds need rest to contemplate, to digest, to assimilate, in a way that we cannot when we are preoccupied with things or people.

Many a woman who is hectic about "making a date" for every moment she has free, might find a pleasant surprise in store for her if she tried taking a walk, for instance, with herself. She might find a certain satisfying something that will open up to her a new resource and give her a feeling of new power the next time someone disappoints her and she finds herself with "nothing to do."

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

"One nice thing about the telephone," says jibbering Jane, "is that it makes lying so easy that one's conscience doesn't bother them."

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

ter than some folks I know, if I do say it. As to our nest, it was made of leaves and feathers and it was in a hole in a certain old stump that not a soul knows of but Mrs. Yank Yank and myself. Now is there anything else you want to know?"

© T. W. Burgess.—WNU Service.

Do YOU Know—

That stilts were used in ancient days for the scaling of castle walls. In the upper parts of the Tweed and Clyde in Scotland, they are resorted to for crossing dry-shod from one bank to another.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

Sherman's Georgia Headquarters A modern dwelling has been made of the house in which General Sherman had his headquarters after seizing Atlanta, Ga., during the Civil war.

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Do you believe in equal rights for men and women? I do. Is there anything a man can be that a woman can't be?

Truly yours,

E. QUALITY.

Answer: Yes, there is something a man can be that a woman can't be. That's a "father" to a big family.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a boy nineteen years of age, and intend being a chef. I love to cook. Can you tell me the best way to preserve peaches?

Yours truly,

F. M. ENIT.

Answer: The best way for you to preserve peaches is not to introduce them to any other fellows.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My brother and I were painting the roof of our three-story house. My brother fell from the roof and lay in a heap on the ground. I could not get him aroused, so I sent for a doctor. The doctor examined him and then told me my brother was dead. At that moment my brother shouted: "That's a lie. I'm not dead." What do you think of that?

Truly yours,

ART TIST.

Answer: Your brother must have been wrong. The doctor knows better than he does.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have to write a story about "Nero" for my school examinations. Who was Nero? Wasn't he the fellow who was always so cold?

Sincerely,

E. QUATOR.

Answer: No, my child. You are thinking of Nero. He is a different chap entirely.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

My wife is always picking on me because I let her take in washing and support me. She says I'm lazy and calls me a "Hydroplane." I admit everything, but I don't get that Hydroplane. What does she mean by calling me a "Hydroplane?"

Yours truly,

I. M. TRED.

Answer: She simply means "You're no good on earth."

© the Associated Newspapers. WNU Service.

WITTY KITTY

By NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

The girl chum says she would try "Planned economy" herself if she could only think of a plan and if she knew anything about economy.

WNU Service.

Man's Mane

Some scientists believe that in the very remote past man must have had a mane on his neck not unlike that in the baboon and ever since has worn something around the neck. Essentially masculine and associated with power, the collar has been worn by knights as a badge and in metallic form by kings at coronations.

HOW TO SHOOT

By Bob Nichols

Shooting Editor, Field and Stream

PRACTICALLY every boy starts his shooting career with a small .22 calibre rifle. His earliest targets will be something easy—like bullfrogs, for instance. Very soon he learns that his shooting has the cleanest, surest-killing results when he aims with a clear, unobstructed view of his game. Experience soon teaches him that the surest way to kill a bullfrog, and especially a large one, is to plant his bullet squarely in the middle of the frog's back at a point about an inch or so behind the eyes. Very soon, if he is a wise little hunter, he learns to hold his fire until he can get a clear view of this vital spot.

A little later in his hunting career, when he takes a shotgun into the field to learn wingshooting, his earlier rifle-shooting experience may cause him to lose the chance at many a shot that might easily be killed with the relatively large killing pattern of his new gun. In other words, failing to see his flying target in the clear, unobstructed open, he frequently may withhold his fire and miss a nice chance for an easy kill.

You cannot wait for flying or running game to appear in a clear, open space before shooting. At the rise you should mount your gun, swing on the roaring target, swing past (ahead of it) and let drive. Pay no attention to limbs and foliage of trees and briar-bushes that may seem to screen your target so well that you can scarcely see the flying mark. Do not worry—enough of your shot will go through to find the mark if your aim is accurate.

Many a time in hunting ruffed grouse I have had the bird roar up in dense woods cover where I could catch only fleeting glimpses of its speedy flight—and when I snapped my gun into firing position ahead of the target and shot at a point that seemed would result in a sure kill, I have been chagrined at seeing my full load land smack against the intervening thick trunk of a tree, while the bird boomed merrily off to safety. On other occasions I have had my full charge strike a sapling scarcely ten feet in front of me and completely cut it down—and again, of course, the bird was safe.

But upon still other occasions I have swung ahead on a grouse's line of flight and let drive right through the thick, dark mass of an evergreen and killed the bird stone dead—even though at the point where my load drove through the screen of evergreen boughs the bird was completely out of sight.

Again, when hunting in waist-high brambles and weeds, I have quite often killed rabbits when they were entirely out of sight at the time I fired. I could see them get out, could see the line of their running as they started. The only hope of bagging them lay in guessing where to shoot—and this "guessing" gets to be a highly accurate estimate after one has had enough experience. All you do is to jump your gun ahead of them and let drive. In a flash you estimate where the rabbit would be if he kept straight on at the speed he started. You instinctively shoot at the point where you judge he will be at the time your shot load gets there. Never mind the intervening screen of bushes and thick weeds. If your hold, or lead, is right, enough of your shot load will drive through to kill the game.

This style of shooting is pure, instinctive gun pointing. It is commonly referred to as "snap shooting." It should only be used when necessary, where the game is obscured from view, and where the choice lies between a "snap shot" or no shot at all.

Rabbit hunting with a farmer friend one day last Autumn I killed three rabbits hand-running with snap shots in heavy cover. After each shot he would call out "Got him?" I'd call back, "Don't know yet—but I shot where he ought to be." And after picking up the third rabbit that was "where he ought to be" my friend swore I had a trained gun that only needed to be told to "sic 'em."

© Western Newspaper Union.

See Weather Forecast in Ice Floe Tremors

A new way of weather forecasting from slight, earthquake-like tremors found to exist in ice floes on the Arctic ocean has been suggested by a young Russian physicist, Dr. I. G. Fakidov, a member of last winter's ill-fated exploring expedition whose members were rescued by airplane after their vessel had been crushed in the ice.

During an average winter the entire Arctic ocean north of Russia is covered by a sheet of ice. Testing this ice sheet with instruments to detect vibrations, Doctor Fakidov discovered continual slight quiverings, some of which could be traced to effects of ocean currents, while others originated in storms known to be raging hundreds of miles away.

Both ocean currents and storms are important in forecasting weather over the Arctic ocean and northern Russia. Much of the weather of lands farther south also is affected by storms or other air movements in the Arctic regions. Many of the cyclonic storms which chiefly determine the weather of the United States originate in the northern Pacific ocean near Alaska or even farther north.

Weather experts long have hoped for permanent observatories in the far north, so that these Arctic happenings could be charted.

HILLTOPS CLEAR

...By EMILIE LORING...

Copyright by The Penn Publishing Co.

WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Prudence Schuyler comes to Prosperity Farm to make a new life for herself and her brother, David, his health broken by tragedy. The second day on her farm Prue falls from the barn loft into the arms of Rodney Gerard, rich young man, a neighbor. There is at once a mutual attraction, but Prudence suspects men since her sister's husband ran away with her brother's wife. Len Calloway tries to buy Prue's timber, but she contracts with Rod to dispose of the trees. David comes to the farm. Prue accompanies Rod and Jean, Rod's thirteen-year-old niece, to a circus. Chicot, an old clown, is accidentally killed. He was the grandfather of Milly Gooch, one of the circus riders. Rod became friendly with Milly when she lived on Prosperity Farm. Calloway intimidates laborers so that they cannot be hired to cut the timber for Rodney Gerard. Milly Gooch broke her engagement to Calloway; he believes Rod was the cause and has since been his enemy. After Chicot's death Rod calls on Milly to see if he can be of any help. Prue sees in a newspaper a flashlight picture of him with Milly. Rodney goes to New York for timber cutters, taking David with him to help select men from among the Rescue Mission hangers-on. Rod sends word of his coming, with a crew of laborers. To keep the knowledge of the workers' arrival from Calloway, Prudence enters her timber tract with him on the pretense of bargaining on the lumbering. He confines her in a cabin.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

—13—

"Hold on! Why the rush? You've been fooling me, haven't you? Been trying to make me believe that I was to cut your timber, while all the time you had your tongue in your cheek. What's the game? I was ready to play fair. I've no quarrel with you. I'm a just man. But you've tricked me. Now you'll pay for it. I'll keep you here till you sign a contract for me to cut for you."

His cool, restrained ferocity stopped Prue's heart for an instant. She seated herself in the one chair, carefully spread her skirts to the blaze, and looked up at him.

"You think you will keep me here, you mean. Wake up! You are in the Twentieth century. You have forgotten that three persons already know with whom I came into the woods. I'll tell you my game, as you call it. Rodney Gerard is bringing in a crew. I preferred that you shouldn't see them arrive. And you didn't. Easy, wasn't it?"

He seized her shoulders. With all her strength she shook off his hands and retreated to the fireplace.

"Don't touch me again! Don't dare!"

The words shivered into a whisper. The icy cold of the brook was stealing through her bones. Calloway folded his arms and scowled.

"He is a little mad," she thought, as she had thought once before.

"Dare! That's a joke. Who can stop me? Your foxy partner is busy with his gang, isn't he? I take off my hat to you, you put your fake friendliness across. I believed you. I asked you to marry me! You've been laughing at me! Now it's my turn. You're here and here you stay. You needn't shiver. You are safe enough. I'm no hum, I'm not a lady-snatcher like Rod Gerard. I'm a just man! I'm entitled to be boss of this county and no one's going to block me. Get that. I won't stand for interference."

Prudence regarded Calloway incredulously. The man was molding his life to an obsession.

"Why are you staring at me? Don't you understand? You'll spend the night here, and then I guess—"

"Say, listen! You've got another guess comin', Buddy."

A man swayed in the entrance. His hunted eyes, set in dark rings, glared from his cadaverous face, a vicious face as ever scowled behind bars. From clawlike fingers a revolver dangled.

Prudence pressed her hand hard against her lips to keep back a cry. The convict? Perhaps he had taken the emerald and diamonds last night. Perhaps she had been horribly unjust to Walter Gerard. Calloway sprang for him. He leveled the gun. It clicked.

"Hands up! Lay off! Get me? If either you or the jame yip, I'll put a bullet through each of you, an' I wouldn't stop to choose which first, either. I ain't like you, you big noise. I am a bum."

He watched Calloway's retreat through half-closed lids. The glint between them was murderous. Prudence said as flippantly as if her heart were not shaking her body with its clamor.

"This is getting to be one of those parties, isn't it?"

"Say, you're a cool one, sister. I guess you can have the cabin after all, Buddy. There'll be folks here after this skirt you kidnapped."

"I haven't kid—"

"Keep your mouth shut! Sit down!"

Calloway sat with a suddenness which rocked the chair. The man in possession of the revolver scowled at Prudence.

"Here you! Scatter that fire! Quick! Think I want the whole pack after you following that smoke? That'll do.

Drop the stick! Stand up by the chimney! Gimme those pearls!"

One instant of paralyzing fright, and then an inner strength sprang to Prue's rescue.

"Pearls!" Her laugh was a masterpiece of its kind. "Pearls! I didn't realize that my wax beads could fool anybody."

The man edged nearer. His revolver covered Calloway, whose eyes looked like those of a trapped fox.

"Wax beads! Oh yeah? Think I don't know the real thing when I see it? What do you s'pose I was doin' a stretch— Get going, sister. Take 'em off, quick, or I'll do it, an' I won't be too easy, neither. Lissen, get a move on!"

Was this nightmare, Prudence wondered, as her unsteady hand fumbled with the diamond and platinum clasp at the back of her neck. It must be. What had seemed an amusing plan to divert Len Calloway couldn't develop into a possible tragedy, could it?

The man grabbed the pearls from her fingers, weighed them in his left hand. His leer was horrible.

"Wax beads! Oh, yeah! I guess they'll get me three squares a day for a year of two."

Was that a faint call? Prudence caught her throat to stifle an exclamation. The man with the revolver stiffened. He thrust the pearls into his dirty shirt. His eyes went dead. "Lissen, you two. Someone's coming. I'm gettin' out. I'll keep this gat trained on you. If either of you tip 'em off I've been here, I'll shoot you on the trail. I'll know."

He backed to the door. With a quick swoop, Prudence flung brush on the coals. Smoke would give a clue to the rescuers. It caught fire and roared up chimney.

"Why you—" Dazed by her daring, the fugitive hesitated. In that instant Calloway sprang and caught him about the shoulders. The revolver clattered to the floor. Prue seized it.

"Hands Up! Both of You!"

"Don't waste your strength, Calloway. Why couldn't she keep her voice steady? 'I've got him covered. I'm not a crack shot, but I think I can drop him at this distance.'"

Calloway turned and took a step forward.

"Stay where you are! Hands up! Both of you! If you move, the next s-scene in this screen thriller will be cut by the censor."

Gun in one hand, one hand clutching the back of the chair, Prudence covered the two men. She disciplined a wild impulse to shout with laughter. Calloway's face! His mouth hung open as if surprise had permanently dislocated his jaw. The other—she shivered—never had she seen such eyes. Trapped. Desperate. Murderous. She had not known that anything human could look like that. David had known, though. Dave! Where was he? If only—

The cabin door! Opening! Slowly! Soundlessly! Something sinister in its caution. Had the escaped convict a pal? Her blood chilled. Who had come?

"Give me that gun!"

Rodney Gerard had the revolver in his hand before Prudence realized who had dashed into the cabin. With a relieved sigh Calloway dropped his hands.

"Put 'em up again!"

"Don't be a darn fool, Gerard. I—"

"Put 'em up! There's blood on your forehead, Prue. Who hurt you?"

Prue's brain felt curiously light. Her voice seemed to trickle from a great empty space behind her eyes.

"Hurt me! No one. Believe it or not, I was about to add a colorful fact to the state of Maine war against crime, when you crashed in. They're an intriguing pair, aren't they? Reading from left to right, you have first a pearl thief, then a—just man—such a just man!"

"Steady, Prue. Don't shiver like that. I'll get your pearls."

"While you're getting those, you might make that man return the jewels he stole from my safe last night."

"Lissen, what does the jame mean, jewels? Do you think if I had anything I could turn into money I'd be hangin' round here? Say, she's crazy."

Was the man acting amazement, or hadn't he taken the emerald?

"Crazy or not, you'll come along with us. Get going!" Gerard gave the revolver a suggestive hitch. "Follow him, Calloway. Keep your hands up, both of you. Prue, come on."

She nodded. Len Calloway looked as if he were burning up, his face had a purplish tinge. He spoke between clenched teeth.

"I'll get going all right. But watch out, Gerard. I'm not through with you. Miss Schuyler's all for you, isn't she? Have you told her that you've been paying Milly Gooch's bills? Have you—Hi—there—you!"

He lunged for the man in front. Caught him about the waist. Fumbling for holds, the two strained and panted. The fugitive was smaller, but fear of a return to prison gave him superhuman strength. He twisted and twined about Calloway's legs until both went down with a crash. With the agility of a cat and the cry of an enraged animal, the victor was on his feet, whirled, and grabbed the gun from Gerard's hand. Crouching, he backed toward the fireplace. His eyes were flames. He aimed the revolver steadily.

"Beat it, you two guys—and beat it quick! I'll keep the pearls—and the girl."

Prudence retreated to the wood pile. She had thought her mind geared to surprises, but this quick turn stopped her heart. She couldn't back away further; the wood pile was like a wall behind her. Hadn't David said that nine times out of ten when one was backed against an insurmountable wall, a gate would open behind if you put up the fight of your life? Perhaps there was a gate in this wall—perhaps. A gate! Cautiously, breathlessly, she groped behind her.

The convict's clawlike fingers tightened on the revolver. He scowled hideously at Gerard. "Hey, you! Cut out that cig. stuff! Beat it, or I'll fire and—"

With all her force Prudence brought the dull side of the ax down on his arm. His sentence shattered into profanity. His gun clattered to the floor. Gerard seized it, thrust it against his back as he whirled on Prue.

"Hey! Cut that out!"

"Beat it, or I'll fire!" Gerard's words, if not his voice, were a perfect imitation as he prodded the cursing, shambling man toward the door.

Calloway thundered "You're not letting him get away, Rod? Don't you know he's the escaped prisoner they're hunting?"

"He won't make his get-away with you at his heels. It's your job to deliver him to the sheriff after you've frisked Miss Schuyler's pearls off him. Get busy, Len."

How could Rodney be so cool, so smiling, Prudence wondered frantically.

"He don't need get busy. Here they are." The captive pulled the lovely, lustrous string from under his ragged, dirty shirt. Prudence snatched it from the floor and clutched it tight against her breast.

"Come across with those jewels!" Gerard poked a reminder.

"Lissen, don't get fresh with the gat. I've coughed up the pearls, ain't I—an' I don't know nothin' about no jewels."

"Let him go! Let him go! I don't care about the jewels. Please let him go." The break in Prue's voice maddened her.

The muscles of Gerard's jaw tightened.

"On your way!" He held out the revolver. "Take it, Len. Don't let this bird stop till you have him safe behind bars."

Calloway gripped the gun. He said through clenched teeth:

"You're taking chances. How do you know I won't shoot you?"

Rodney Gerard regarded him through narrowed lids and smiled.

"Because you're such a just man, Len. Drop that ax, Prue, you won't need it again."

"Get going!" Calloway's fury was partially expended in the jab he gave the man at the other end of the revolver.

The door swung on its hinges. Through the opening came the crackling of twigs under stumbling, heavy feet, rough voices. The sounds dwindled into forest silence.

"Is it s-safe to go now?" With unsteady fingers Prue tried to clasp the pearls about her throat.

"In just a minute. Let me do that. Bend your head, Gorgeous."

The husk in Gerard's voice, his fingers against the back of her neck set Prue shivering again.

"What's the matter?" He looked down at her skirt. "Your clothes are soaked. Your lips are blue. How did you get so wet? That's a mean bruise. What happened?"

"Lost my way. Fell into the b-brook."

He pulled off his coat. "Put your arms in. Don't argue. Do as you're told. It's not a perfect thirty-six, but it will help keep you warm."

"How did you know where I was?"

"Jean got anxious about you.

Turned back and met us. That child has a brain. She knew you shouldn't have gone with Calloway. Why, why did you do it?"

"Jim wished he could be out of the way when the g-gang arrived. I tried to help, and now you c-crab—"

"I'm not crabbing. Don't you know that I almost lost my mind when Jean told me where you'd gone? Don't you know that I went through h—l getting to you? Don't you know that it's torture for me to see you shiver and have my hands tied by that infernal promise I made? If I were to touch you—"

The caressing break in his voice, the faint tremor of his lips sent the blood burning to Prue's hair.

"Oh, come on! Let's get out of here!" He pulled a flashlight from his coat pocket.

"Let's hurry! Hurry! I'm frozen!"

"Go on."

He followed as she entered the trail. Every swish of her wet skirts about her knees sent a million little icy shivers coasting along her veins. Gerard faced her down the trail. The hand that touched her was like ice. Contrition swept her.

"You're freezing! Take your coat. I don't need it, r-really I don't."

"Stop talking. Go on! If you don't, I will carry you, and you are not a fairy, girl."

He was cold, but of course he wouldn't acknowledge it. Had he heard what Calloway had said about Milly and money—Och, how cold her legs and feet were—like sticks of ice! There! She had put the right one forward. Now the left—right—left—right—Had Rodney paid the circus girl's bills? Left—right—"Keep on feet!"—left—right—march time—the words were like a merry-go-round. She couldn't stop them. The clearing at last. Copper-red light on the trees. A fire? No, the sunset! A sky of rainbow splendor. The color warmed her, all except her feet. Right—left—they had frozen—

Someone caught her as she stumbled. Someone picked her up in his arms.

"How warm—how heavenly—Left—right—Please—p-lease—Jim— Jim—stop those words going round and round—"

Someone smothered something between his teeth. Someone pulled off the coat, bundled her into something woolly and soft, something that smelled of tobacco, lifted her into a car. She was warmer. Those horrid words had stopped whirling. Why should she have thought for an instant that she was with Jim Armstrong? She looked at the man at the wheel.

"Thank goodness, you have put on your coat! It would be you—the man-of-the-moment," she said unsteadily.

He looked straight down into her eyes. Straight and deep.

"But all the time you thought I was Jim."

Prudence closed her lids tight. That pesky, "Left!" "Right!" started in her head again. She had better keep them open. Rodney Gerard needn't growl at her. Suppose she were to remind him of Milly Gooch and—lucky she had found that out in time!

Gerard drew the robe closer about her.

"Warmer Gorgeous?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

Submerged Coral Reefs

Make Lightning Changes

To watch a submerged coral reef is to witness miracles, says the National Geographic society. At one moment the whole reef is alive with pulsating, expanding, waving sea creatures of delicate pastel colors. A touch, a splash, or even the shadow from a boat overhead, causes a spasm of alarm. In a twinkling every living thing on the reef has changed. Frail anemones contract and withdraw into themselves. Jeweled fish dart into holes. The banded rockfish has changed its markings and the spotted flounder that rippled over the sand is now invisible, having changed color to resemble sand. For a minute the reef remains barren and dull. Then, one by one, fish and anemones take courage and furtively emerge.

The reason for these lightning changes is obvious when one realizes the greedy cannibalism of a coral reef. Though resembling the most retiring, sensitive flowers, anemones use their tentacles to seize and paralyze fish. The sargassumfish are such cannibals that they swallow each other. In this constant warfare, being continually preyed upon, many fish have developed unusual means of protection. The surgeon fish carries near its tail a sharp-edged spine capable of slashing its enemies. The puffer fish, under threat of being swallowed, inflates itself into an inedible, prickly ball.

Mackinac Island

The Indians named Mackinac Island Michilimackinac, meaning "Great Turtle." They reckoned it the abiding place of spirits and left many a peace offering there in the calcareous rock caves. It was here that Schoolcraft wrote his legend of Hiawatha, afterward made into a poem by Longfellow.

Life

What kind of a tale is life to you? Life meaningful and worth living? That depends upon the one who lives it. The really good man finds life good.

Children as Teachers

The child in the cradle is God's child. How, then, shall we take this little child? We will take him as one who brings a new revelation to us. The children are the great teachers. They bring a new revelation of God and his love.

Call for Prayer

Emergencies call for intense prayer. When the man becomes the prayer, nothing can resist its touch. Elijah on Carmel, bowed down on the ground, with his face between his knees, that was the prayer—the man himself.

Life

What kind of a tale is life to you? Life meaningful and worth living? That depends upon the one who lives it. The really good man finds life good.

Children as Teachers

The child in the cradle is God's child. How, then, shall we take this little child? We will take him as one who brings a new revelation to us. The children are the great teachers. They bring a new revelation of God and his love.

Call for Prayer

Emergencies call for intense prayer. When the man becomes the prayer, nothing can resist its touch. Elijah on Carmel, bowed down on the ground, with his face between his knees, that was the prayer—the man himself.

Life

What kind of a tale is life to you? Life meaningful and worth living? That depends upon the one who lives it. The really good man finds life good.

Children as Teachers

The child in the cradle is God's child. How, then, shall we take this little child? We will take him as one who brings a new revelation to us. The children are the great teachers. They bring a new revelation of God and his love.

Call for Prayer

Emergencies call for intense prayer. When the man becomes the prayer, nothing can resist its touch. Elijah on Carmel, bowed down on the ground, with his face between his knees, that was the prayer—the man himself.

Life

What kind of a tale is life to you? Life meaningful and worth living? That depends upon the one who lives it. The really good man finds life good.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for December 30

TESTS OF A CHRISTIAN

LESSON TEXT—I John 5:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.—I John 5:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Show We Love God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Sons and Daughters of God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Christ Helps Us to Live Our Best.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Victory Through Christ.

The purpose of John in this epistle is to furnish criteria by which one may know beyond a peradventure that he has eternal life (see I John 5:13). In working out his purpose he sets down a definite thesis in chapter 1, verses 1-4, which is that eternal life was manifested to credible witnesses—John and his fellow apostles—in the person of Jesus Christ. Through the incarnation Jesus Christ has become identified with the human race, so that those who believe in him are introduced to the Father, resulting in a vital fellowship. The saved one has fellowship with God, or fellowship in the life eternal. The entire epistle is devoted to the exhibition of tests by which one can surely know that he is saved. The lesson unit for today is the culmination of these tests.

I. Believes That Jesus Is the Christ (v. 1).

Such faith is the proof of regeneration. He not merely believes in the ethics of Jesus, but that the historic Jesus is the Messiah of God—the Son of God come in the flesh. The one lacking this belief is still unregenerate, regardless of his pretensions. Jesus Christ is the giver of eternal life. Yea, he is, in his very essential being, eternal life. Therefore, the one who believes in him as manifest in the flesh is born of God.

II. Loves the Children of God (v. 1).

The love born of God loves those who are born of God. The unfailing test of fellowship with God is that we love those who are born of God. Love for God shows itself in loving God's children.

III. Keeps God's Commandments (vv. 2, 3).

This is filial, not legal obedience. We do not keep God's commandments in order to become his children, but because we possess his nature. Obedience is the unfailing proof of the divine birth.

IV. Overcomes the World (vv. 4, 5).

Conflict for the regenerate man is absolutely certain. The world's ways are opposed to God. By the world is meant all that is opposed to God. It includes all the lusts of the flesh which respond to the enticements of the world. It also includes Satan, the prince of this world. The one who believes that Jesus is the son of God is born of God and has Jesus Christ living in him. Therefore, he overcomes the world, because he has in him one who is greater than Satan. Faith in Jesus Christ is the weapon by means of which victory is realized. The victorious life is the absolute test of being a Christian.

V. The Grounds of Christian Belief (vv. 6-12).

Since victory over the world is secured by faith in Jesus as the Son of God, it is important that we know the grounds upon which such belief is based. The believer's faith rests upon the threefold testimony of the Spirit, the water, and the blood.

1. The Spirit is the Holy Spirit, the third member of the Godhead. His supreme business is to make Christ real. This he does to the spirit of the believer (Rom. 8:16), and to the world, through the Word of God and through the lives and testimony of believers.

2. The water is his baptism at the Jordan. By baptism he formally entered upon his mediatorial work. It was here that the Spirit came upon him in the form of a dove, and that the Father acknowledged him as his Son.

3. The blood is that of the Cross. In the act of baptism he dedicated himself to that task of making full a righteousness for man on the cross of Calvary. This is doubtless what is meant by "fulfilling all righteousness." His baptism and the crucifixion, with all that they signified, were proofs that Jesus was the very Son of God. The witness of the cross of Christ is still gripping and saving men.

Children as Teachers

The child in the cradle is God's child. How, then, shall we take this little child? We will take him as one who brings a new revelation to us. The children are the great teachers. They bring a new revelation of God and his love.

Call for Prayer

Emergencies call for intense prayer. When the man becomes the prayer, nothing can resist its touch. Elijah on Carmel, bowed down on the ground, with his face between his knees, that was the prayer—the man himself.

Life

What kind of a tale is life to you? Life meaningful and worth living? That depends upon the one who lives it. The really good man finds life good.

Children as Teachers

The child in the cradle is God's child. How, then, shall we take this little child? We will take him as one who brings a new revelation to us. The children are the great teachers. They bring a new revelation of God and his love.

Call for Prayer

Emergencies call for intense prayer. When the man becomes the prayer, nothing can resist its touch. Elijah on Carmel, bowed down on the ground, with his face between his knees, that was the prayer—the man himself.

Life

What kind of a tale is life to you? Life meaningful and worth living? That depends upon the one who lives it. The really good man finds life good.

Children as Teachers

The child in the cradle is God's child. How, then, shall we take this little child? We will take him as one who brings a new revelation to us. The children are the great teachers. They bring a new revelation of God and his

The Voice of the American Legion

By The Tinley Park Post No. 615

AMERICANISM FIRST

THE RE-INTENSIFIED
PROGRAM IS LAUNCHED
WITH POWER

BY PAUL G. ARMSTRONG
Commander Department of Illinois

The American Legion means business.

There will be no pussyfooting in our Americanism this year.

"Americanism" is a term which is used frequently, both within and without the Legion today.

To many people the term "Americanism" has a vague and an indefinite meaning.

To some people it is associated with flag waving, marching columns and bands, while in other people it arouses the deepest emotions of sentiment, loyalty and love of country.

Some people today seek to give this term "Americanism" a new meaning. They seek to discard all it has stood for, for decades, and give it a new application in the light of changing times.

We, of the Legion, have not lost our love of liberty, our respect for American Institutions, our respect for our Constitution, nor have we qualified in any sense our standards of democracy.

In Illinois we are calling to our aid the responsible men and women who wish to enjoy in their lifetime—and to see secured for their descendants the blessings of liberty promised in the preamble to that Constitution of the United States which every Legionnaire has sworn to uphold and defend.

They are flocking to our standard too—aware at last that the "enemy within" really has become a menace which heretofore allowed to roam at will, now must be curbed and stamped out conclusively.

We find no failing love of country, no lack of patriotic purpose. It only has not been exercised and like an unused muscle, is soft and less effective.

But it still is ready as ever to help insure in America our inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Their unwavering patriotic loyalty is an inspiration to us in the Legion.

We want it to be an inspiration to every Illinoisan who wants to see preserved for the coming years and the far future, the opportunity to happiness which Americanism means.

The fundamental principles of right, of righteousness and of neighborliness endure forever, like the Ten Commandments, regardless of the changing times and customs of a progressing people.

Likewise, the basic principles of liberty, of justice and of democracy, contained in our American constitution, can endure eternally, through any changes in customs or of living through which we pass.

From time to time we may have to change the terms of language by which it is expressed. New elements of living may have to be fitted to the framework of the Constitution. That is only the nature of progress. But to the basic principles of liberty expressed in our constitution, we of the Legion shall ever remain true.

If ever a dissenting thought against this government of ours should enter our minds, memory would carry us back to those circumstances and series of events that gave rise to this Legion of ours, and to that preamble of the American Legion Constitution, which reads in part as follows:

"For God and Country, we associate ourselves together, to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America, to maintain law and order, to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism."

Sixteen years ago, a time we well remember, a great crisis confronted this Nation. Before us stood the most powerful military autocracy the world has ever known.

Another Crisis Here

We were a great disorganized democracy. Disorganized in the business of war, but supreme in the tenets of peace—in that trying moment when liberty hung in the balance; this great nation of ours was inspired with an unprecedented spirit of Americanism, a love for country, a love for government, a love for our institutions never before seen in the history of this country, and a firm determined spirit to preserve them no matter what the cost or defense may be.

State lines were forgotten. There was no North, no South, no East, and no West, party lines were forgotten—there was no Liberal, no Conservative, no Democrat, no Republican; we were all one; the sentiment in every heart, the conviction in every mind, the word on every lip, was to stand by our government and follow our flag.

That is the kind of Americanism this nation needs today—that is the kind of Americanism that the American Legion is trying to bring back

LOTS OF EGGS?
That's easy! You can get plenty of eggs and profits, just as others do, by feeding

Pratt's

BUTTERMILK LAYING MASH
processed for Vitamin D potency, chock full of egg-making nourishment, uniform and does not cost a cent more than any good mash. Pratt's certainly will make more money for you.

PETER KRUNCOS
181st & Harlem
TINLEY PARK, ILL.

ORVILLE J. SCHMADEKE

Funeral Director
and Licensed Embalmer
Tel. 108 Orland Park, Ill.

NOTICE OF PUBLICATION
STATE OF ILLINOIS,)
County of Will) ss
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT
Mary Etta Tipp by Peter Stewart, her father and next friend

vs. Plaintiff,
Vincent Tipp Defendant.

Civil action in equity.

No. 41423

Affidavit showing that the defendant, Vincent Tipp resides out of this State, so that process cannot be served upon him and that the place of residence of said defendant Vincent Tipp is Florissant, Missouri, having been filed in the office of the Clerk of this court, notice is therefore, hereby given to said defendant that the plaintiff in the above entitled cause filed her complaint in said cause on the 18th day of December 1934, and that said action is now pending and undetermined in said court, and that you, the said defendant, must file your answer or otherwise make your appearance in said action on or before the third Monday in the month of January, 1935, and in the event you fail to do so default may be entered against you.

Paul V. Wunder, Clerk of said Court

Herbert P. Folkers, Plaintiff's Attorney.

Joliet, Ill., December 18th, A. D. 1934.

Dec. 21, 28, 1934 Jan. 4, 1935.

PROBATE NOTICE

Estate of Justina E. Weiss, deceased.

The undersigned having been appointed Administratrix with Will Annexed of the estate of Justina E. Weiss, late of Joliet, in the County of Will and State of Illinois, deceased, hereby gives notice that she will appear before the Probate Court of Will County, at the Court House in Joliet, in February 1935 on the first Monday in February next (being the Fourth day of said month), at which time all persons having claims against said estate are notified and requested to attend for the purpose of having the same adjusted. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment to the undersigned.

Dated this 10th day of December, A. D. 1934.

DORA RIEGEL,

Administratrix with Will Annexed, as aforesaid.

Albert H. Krusemark, Attorney.

Dec. 14, 21, 28, 1934.

Bill's Barbershop

In former Royal Blue Store Bldg., in MOKENA, ILL.

Satisfaction My Motto

Haircuts 35c

Children's Haircuts 25c

Shaves 15c

Your patronage solicited.

Wm. EVITT, Proprietor

Telephone Orland 54-M2

Edw. Schmaedeke
Auctioneer
ORLAND, ILLINOIS

to our American people.

Today, as we make a survey of this nation, we find disorganization, discontent and dissension on every side. There is a lack of respect for law, a lack of confidence in our government, distrust in public officials, and a desire on the part of some to overthrow our government—that system of government which has taken centuries to develop and millions of lives to establish.

Let's Go—Again

I believe, in the face of this national danger which confronts us today, it is possible that our wartime achievements can be repeated to meet the dangers of today.

What we of the Legion believe this nation needs is a re-kindling of a spirit of patriotism, a re-awakening in every individual to an understanding as to the responsibilities of citizenship, a re-dedication of every citizen to an unselfish program of service to the community, State and Nation.

Homer

Mrs. Fred Kopelman

Due to sickness in the community, there was neither Sunday school or services at the Homer Congregational church Sunday. The Christmas eve exercises have also been postponed indefinitely.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Casper was placed under quarantine for scarlet fever the past week. Stanley Jungles is ill with scarlet fever. Mrs. Jungles is able to be up again after a siege of the fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rodgers are both ill with influenza.

Mrs. Bell Storm of Maple road is caring for them.

Miss Hazel Parker is at the John Welter home this week, caring for Mrs. Welter who is ill.

A large number of young people have been enjoying the coasting and bob rides this week.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Homer church met at the church Thursday. Pot luck dinner was served. Election of officers was held.

Mae Lou Winke is on the sick list.

Miss Helen Nemeth, a student at the Joliet Junior College, is spending the Christmas holidays with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parker and son Roy enjoyed Christmas dinner with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen in Joliet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cutler and daughter Evelyn are ill with influenza.

Thursday evening, Mrs. Brown, teacher of the Barnett school and Miss Halderson, teacher of the Maple Street school and their pupils had the Christmas programs at the Barnett school house. Mrs. Storm and her pupils gave their Xmas program.

Irene Nemeth, Hazel Schwaab, Earl Kopelman and Harold Schwaab joined the Lockport Glee Club Wednesday night in singing Christmas carols around the town. After an hour of singing, they returned to the high school where they enjoyed refreshments.

Sunday evening the Young People's Society met at the Homer Congregational church and held an evening service with Owen Storm as leader. His text was: "What does a young man dream?" After the services the young people enjoyed several hours of coasting on nearby hills.

Margaret and Eloise Welter are confined to their home by illness.

Robert Jungles and son Charles are ill in their home with an attack are ill in their home with an attack

MARLEY

Miss Iva Gillett

The Maple Street Arbor of Gleaners held their election of officers for the ensuing year. The newly elected officers are:

Chief Gleaner, Peter Haas; vice-chief Gleaner, Earle Cutler; Chaplain, Royal Corp; Secretary and treasurer, James Frazer; Conductor, Julian Gorham; Conductress, Beatrice Corp; Lecturer, Minnie Blodgett; Outer Guard, Loren Sass; Inner Guard, Ralph Rapson.

The Gleaners will sponsor a dance on New Year's night January first in New Lenox in the Colonial Hall. Guests at Christmas Dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilsy were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilsy, Dorothy, James and Ralph; Mr. John Creer of Orland; Harold, Julia and Edith Tilsy of Goodings Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kercheval were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sproat last Friday evening in honor of their thirty-sixth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Storm, Barbara, Betty, Bruce and Bob spent their Christmas vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Haley.

The Sunday Evening Club will sponsor their customary celebration of the New Year at a party which will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blodgett on New Year's eve. Everyone is invited to come.

The church and Brotherhood will hold their annual church business meeting the first Friday night in January which will be the fourth.

Miss Josie Sharts, Mrs. Bell Storm Irene and Owen Storm enjoyed Christmas Day at the home of Mrs. Ellen Storm in Wilmette.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marshall entertained at a family dinner which was held at their home Christmas Day. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Storm, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Coe, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison

Choice Liquors

80c a pint
and up

MUSCATEL, PORT AND SHERRY

$1.25 a quart

CHAMPAIGN WINE

$1.50 a quart

ete Parenti

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Tel. Mokena 53-M2

Chas. Erickson

AUCTIONEER

Mokena, Illinois

Haley, Donald and Merle of Kempton, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore and daughter Ramona and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall.

The program committee of the Sunday Evening Club has invited the members of the Chorus to repeat this coming Sunday evening the Choral program of Christmas music that was given last Sunday morning in church. This is a special program and will be an inspiration to anyone attending.

The Marley Young People could have found no more appropriate way to spend Christmas night than by having a sleighing party. A merry group of young folks met at the home of Loren Sass and after a cold ride they went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laufer where they were served cocoa and sandwiches.

MOKENA

Born on Christmas morning to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaddis, a six pounds and 10½ ounce daughter. She has been named Phyllis Lorraine and will be a playmate of a brother Bruce.

Last Monday Mr. and Mrs. Adam Barenz attended the funeral of Mr. Meyer, father-in-law of their daughter, Mrs. Katie Meyer. The funeral was held in Homewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bechstein spent Christmas in Chicago at the home of the latter's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Hall, Jr., daughters Alva and Wanda spent part of Christmas Day in Joliet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Hall and Mr. Voight.

While Mrs. Harry Schoen was driving her car along Denny ave., on the south side of the village Monday morning, the front end of the car caught fire due to a short circuit in some wires. She managed to get to the Mokena Motor Sales garage where the blaze was quickly extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Deardmore of Joliet spent Christmas Day in the Wm. Semmler home.

Wm. Evitt injured his left arm Christmas eve when he slipped on an icy walk in front of his barber shop. He is much improved.

Mrs. J. V. Hall and daughter Eleanor spent Christmas Day in Chicago with Miss Jessie Hall.

Mrs. Montgomery of Joliet a former resident of Mokena, and mother of Ray Montgomery of Mokena, received word Monday of the death of her father in Brandon, Iowa.

Miss Adeline Semmler is spending several days this week in Joliet with her classmate, Miss Ada Reilly.

Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Grey spent the Christmas holidays with the latter's parents in Ohio.

Miss Maxine Vail is spending the holidays with her parents in Wis.

Miss Elizabeth Krusemark is spending the holidays with her father in Truman, Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Schmuhl entertained a large company of relatives at a Christmas party on Christmas Day.

Leon Tonn was a Christmas Day dinner guest in the home of his sister, Mrs. Egbert Gillett in Marley.

The Bel Canto Girls' Glee Club of the Mokena public school, under the direction of their instructor, Miss Maxine Vail, held a Christmas party in the auditorium of the school on Saturday evening. The stage was arranged into a living room with red and green paper streamers, wreaths, a Christmas tree and lighted candles were used for decorations. A long table was set in the center of the room, which was spread with white cloth centered with a gold star with a green candle in the center of the star and a red candle at each point of the star. Red and gold nut cups with place cards seated the sixteen guests, which included members of the 1933 high school sophomore class. Lovely refreshments were served. Games were played, among which was an initiating stunt for the members.

The Mokena public school will reopen next Wednesday morning, the second of January.

CARD OF THANKS

We extend our heartfelt thanks to relatives, neighbors and friends for kindness and sympathy shown us in our bereavement in the death of our beloved wife and mother. We also thank those who sent floral tributes, Father Roman and the singers and all those who donated the use of their automobiles.

PAUL RINKE, SR., AND FAMILY

LINCOLN ESTATES

Wilfred Niedringhaus

Sunday evening the Woodvale Sunday School gave their Christmas Pageant. The Shepherd and Manger scenes were acted out in pantomime as the Sunday School Chorus sang appropriate Christmas Carols. Santa arrived as the curtain came down on the finale and gave candy, cookies, etc., to the youngsters. Later Mr. Sluiter played the organ while every one sang the old hymns we all know and love. Fiftyfour were present which proved that the Sunday school has about outgrown its present meeting place, so it is considered moving soon to quarters devoted to its exclusive use.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sluiter announce the engagement of their daughter Grace to George Elderveld.

Shirley Niedringhaus, 7 years old had the honor of having the highest average of all the pupils in Ann Rutledge school. Her average was 97.3-4 for the month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Roberts spent Christmas in Jefferson Park with the latter's sister, Mrs. Holms.

Mrs. J. McGrath was a Sunday visitor in the Lincoln Estates.

The pupils of the Ann Rutledge school enjoyed a Christmas party at the school house Friday afternoon. Games were played and the winners given prizes. Each child received a gift of candy and a toy.

The PTA made a present to the school of a new encyclopedia set.

The Wm. Lockwood family were guests of Leslie Lockwood and family in Chicago on Sunday.

The Catholic Catechism class had their Xmas party Saturday morning instead of the usual instruction class. Fr. Roman sent out two Christmas trees and a crib so that the temporary chapel looked very festive. Each child received a gift and cookies and candy in a stocking.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Tyler were guests at the Bert Matson home Saturday night. Pinochle was played and refreshments were served.

The Gatter school children had their Christmas program and party Friday afternoon. Each child took part in the program. Santa Claus gave out the presents to pupils and teacher and games were played. Sandwiches, cookies, cake, apples and candy were served. As a surprise Mr. Marti took all the children and teacher for a sleigh ride. The children all had a very nice time and thanked Mr. Marti for the ride.

Mrs. Richardson was called to Hammond, Indiana last week by the death of her mother.

ORLAND PARK

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved father, John T. Cooper, Sr., who passed away, December 31, 1933:

Not dead to those who loved him,
Not lost but gone before;
He lives with us in memory still
And will for evermore.

HIS CHILDREN AND GRAND-CHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

ENDERS—In fond and loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Lydia Enders who left us five years ago, December 30, 1929.

Rock of Ages what a picture
It has printed on our heart,
How it soothes the wounded spirit,
How it calms our broken heart;
Rock of Ages be our comfort,
Though in deepest gloom we grope;
None can break it, none can shake it.

Rock of Ages be our home,
Nothing but memories as we journey on,
Longing for a smile from a loved one gone;

None know the depths of our days regret,
But we remember when others forget.
A word from the heart, a handclasp in thought,
In remembrance of one who is never forgot.

LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN

A BRIGHT AND HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR 1935

PURE MILK

Rich in cream. An ideal beverage for growing youngsters.

OUR HYDRO VACING PROCESS ASSURES THE PURITY OF OUR PRODUCT.

MARTI'S DAIRY, Mokena,

Phone Mokena 31-W1 For Daily Delivery. Do It Today!

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," That "Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgia, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalinizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, harmless, non-laxative.

Why don't you try it? Get a drink at your drug store soda fountain for a nickel. Buy a package for home use.

Large Package 60 cents

Small Package 30 cents

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

ALKA-SELTZER

</

I. N. R. Beatty Lumber Company

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

The Prevailing Holiday Spirit prompts us to express to you our appreciation of your considerate and courteous co-operation with us during the last year.
We extend to you our Sincere Good Wishes for a Most Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Vogt Department Store
TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Funk's Service Station

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

From The

Bettenhausen Hardware Store
TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Funk's
Lunch Room

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Mel's Service Station

START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT BY BOOSTING
SALES THRU ADVERTISING

Mokena Motor Sales

MOKENA, ILLINOIS

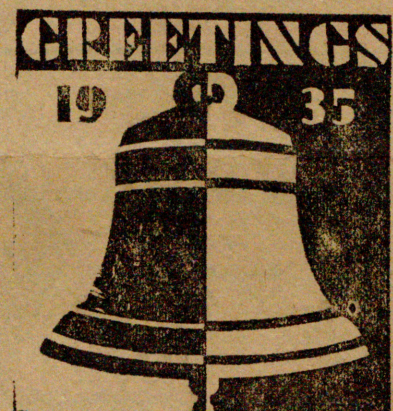

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Grover C.
Elmore
Poultry Co.

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Chas. Holwedel
Painter and Decorater

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

From
George
Schreiber

TINLEY PARK, ILLINOIS

Henry Koehler
Driver For
Tinley Park
Bakery

EDW. SCHMAEDEKE
ORLAND PARK, ILLINOIS

GEO. YUNKER'S TAVERN
ORLAND PARK, ILLINOIS

MORRY'S TAVERN
MOKENA, ILLINOIS

COOPER & HOSTERT
MOKENA, ILLINOIS

Ona E.
McGovney

MOKENA, ILLINOIS

Mokena Oil Company
MOKENA, ILLINOIS

FOR A BRIGHT AND HAPPY 1935
G. M. KRAUS
MOKENA, ILLINOIS

HERE'S FOR A PROSPEROUS 1935
BARNEY MOORE'S TAVERN
ORLAND PARK, ILLINOIS

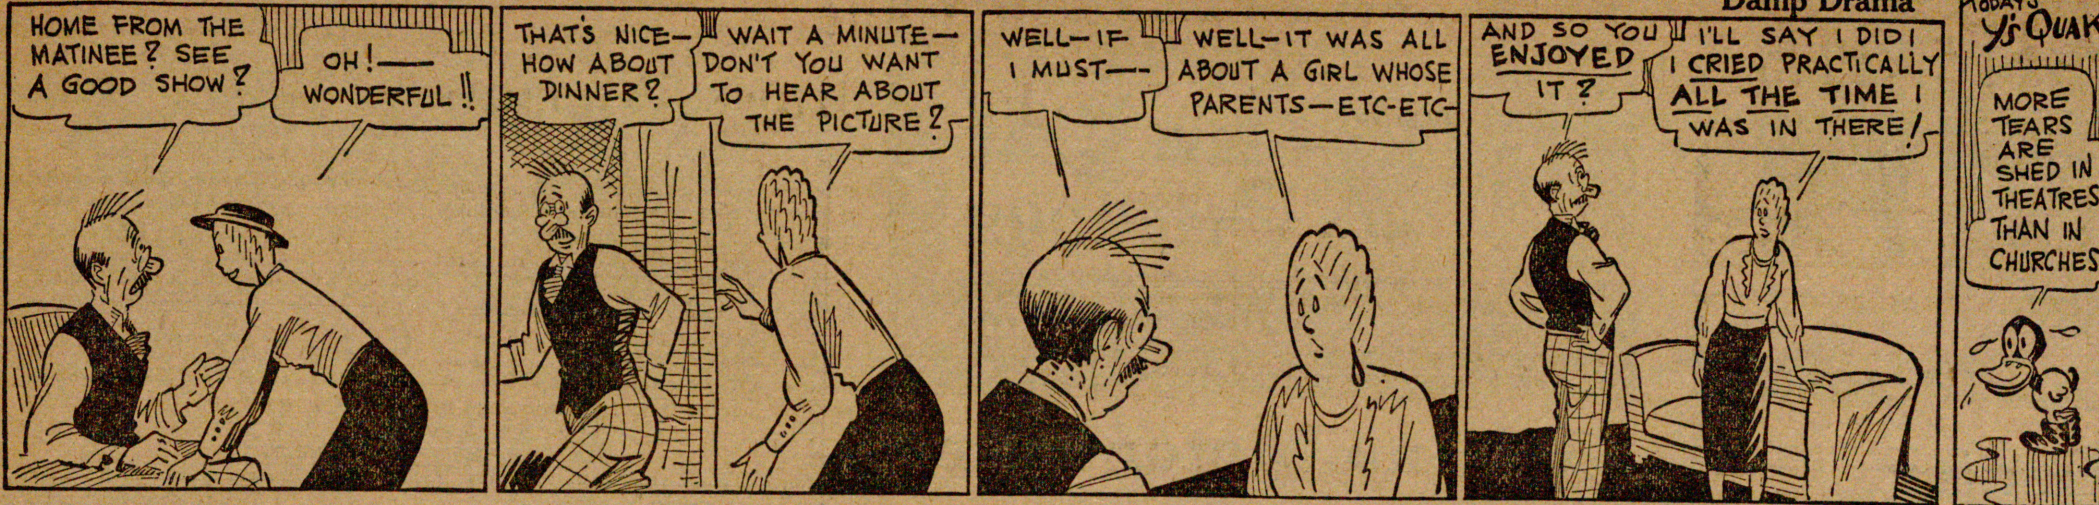

Loebe Bros.
ORLAND PARK, ILLINOIS

MAY JOY AND HAPPINESS BE YOURS
THROUGHOUT THE YEAR 1935

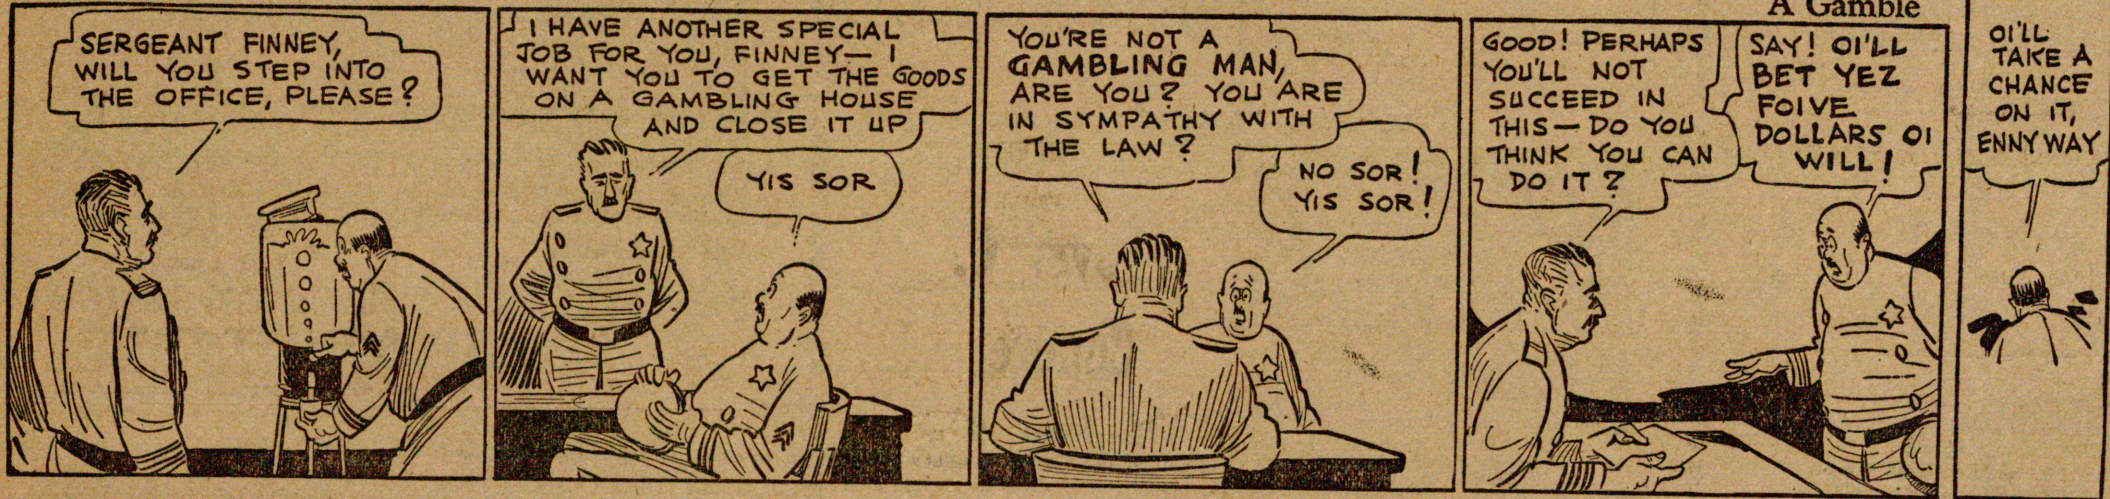

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

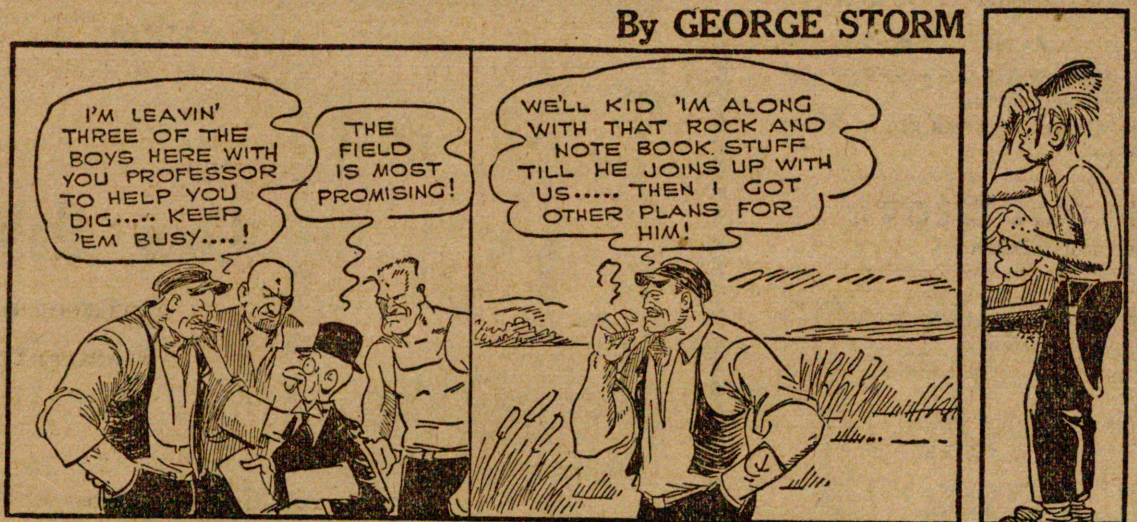

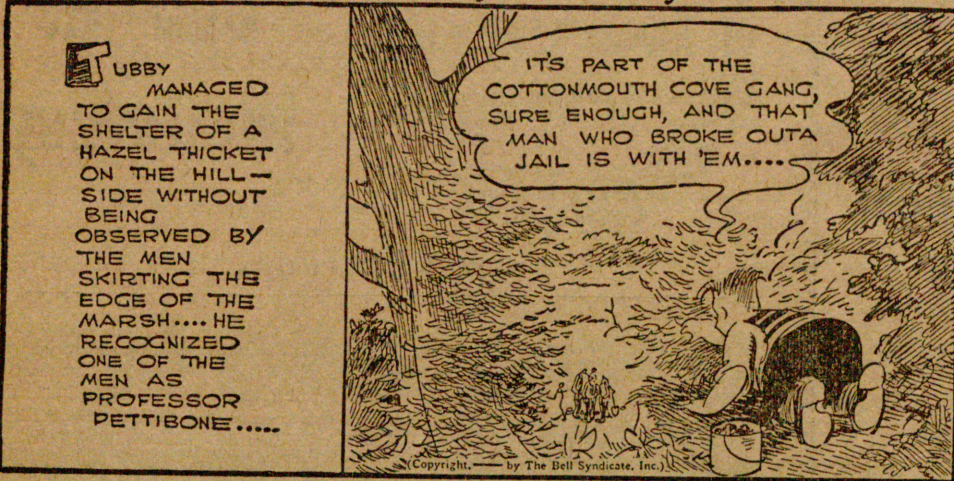

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

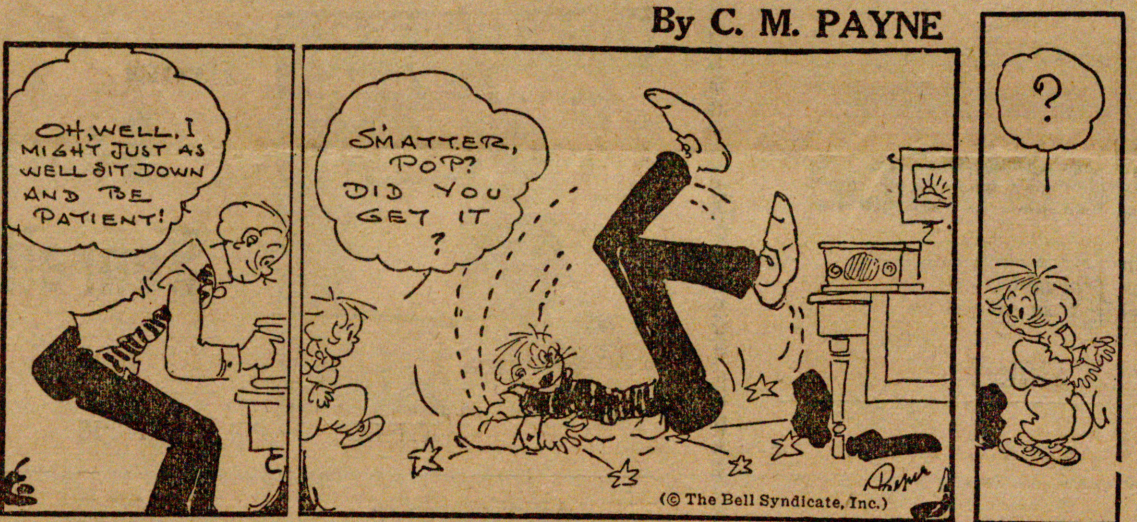

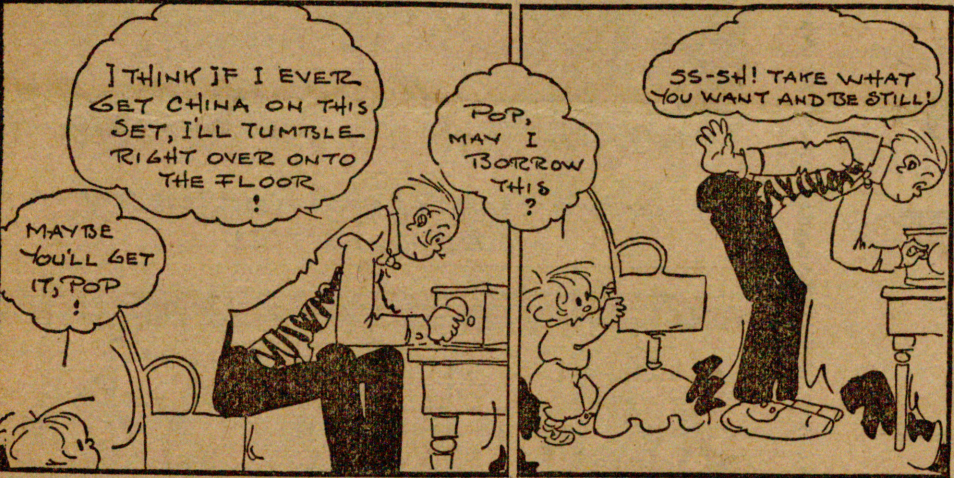

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

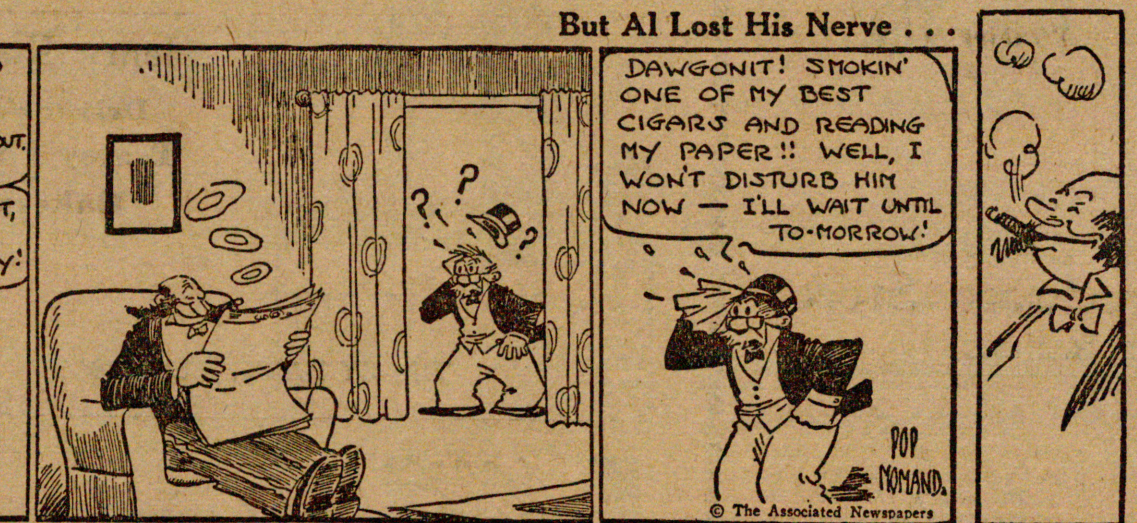

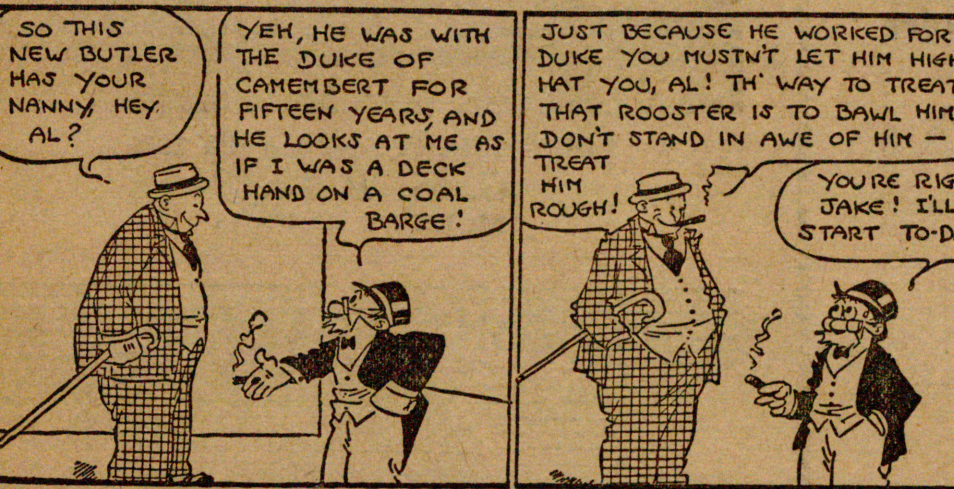

BOBBY THATCHER—Tubby's Discovery

SMATTER POP—Pop Just Jarred China

"KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES"

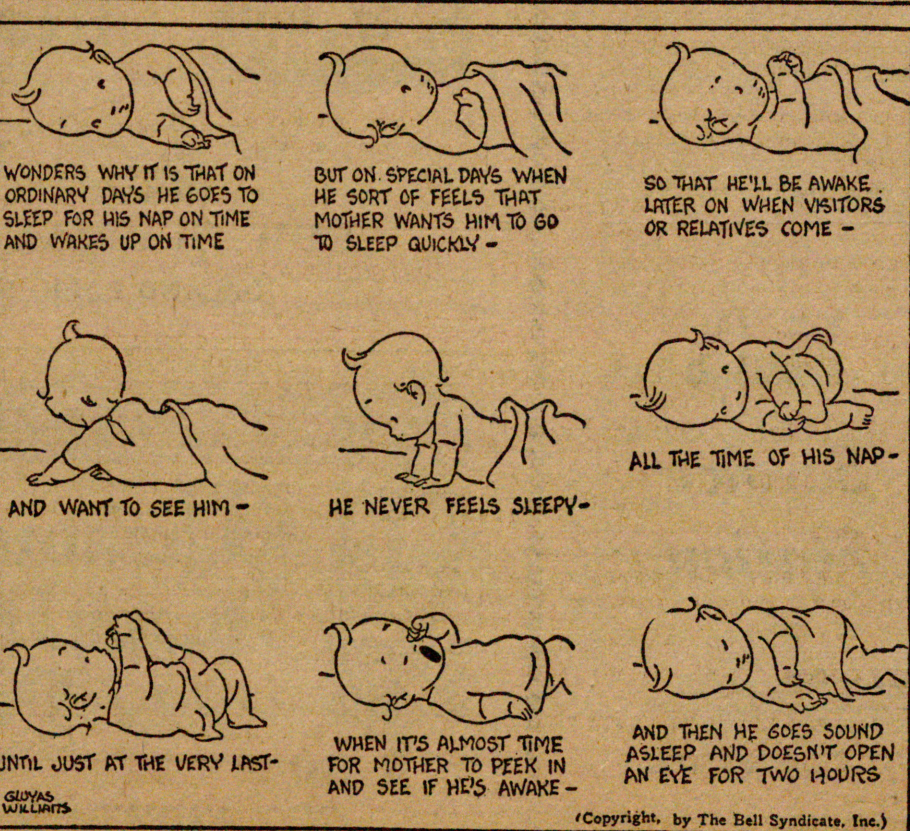

Along the Concrete

By M. G. KETTNER

Nap Time

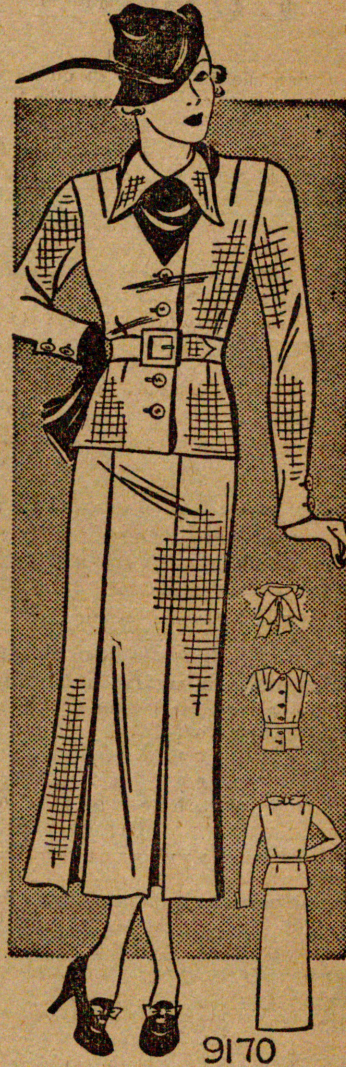

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

JAUNTY LOOK IN THIS TWO-PIECE MODISH DESIGN

PATTERN 9170

No wonder the young lady sketched here is so jaunty! With buttons up the blouse-front in a military manner, neat sleeves carrying out the button motif in their unusual cuffs, and a slenderizing paneled skirt—who wouldn't be in a high mood? The tabs at the neck are the latest idea in what a snappy neckline should be. So is the triangular scarf which slips underneath them and ties in a perky knot at the back. The small view shows a scarf and bow of ribbon. Make it up in ribbed or nubby wool and wear it with a Tyrolean felt hat. It's a high-spirited rock for a high-spirited girl—or woman.

Pattern 9170 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42. Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards 54-inch fabric and 3/4 yard 36-inch contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins are preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighth Street, New York.

Smiles

IMPORTANT, NOW

Man (At spiritualistic seance)—I would like to call up the spirit of George Washington.

Medium—Yes, I have it.

Man—Ask him where that dollar landed when he threw it across the Rappahannock river.—Chelsea Record.

Redoubled Effort

"What do you think has been the result of cutting the value of the dollar in half?"

"It has stimulated our energies," answered Senator Sorghum. "Everybody seems to feel that he'll have to hustle twice as hard to get the old results."

Something Wrong

Guest—Do you operate a bus between the hotel and the railroad station?

Manager of Ritz Hotel—No, sir! Guest—That's strange. All my friends said you would get me coming and going.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—It begins to appear that the country as a whole may have a chance to know how many laws and executive orders issued thereunder have come out of the New Deal in its twenty-one months of life, President Roosevelt has determined upon publication in an official manner as the means of informing Mr. Average Man what he is not supposed to do under the New Deal. It has not been determined yet whether there will be an official government newspaper for publication of all of these laws, executive orders, codes, regulations and other means of official expression, but everything points that way.

New Deal Publicity

Courts have always said that ignorance of the law excuses no man. It remained for the Supreme Court of the United States, however, to say that when the average man was deluged with hundreds of orders of prohibition and prohibition from Washington, he was or is quite likely to be unable to comprehend what it is all about.

It was almost unprecedented for criticism to come from a member of the Supreme Court of the United States. But Associate Justice Brandeis, one of the outstanding liberals of the highest tribunal, made no effort to conceal his grievance when, in the course of presentation of an NRA case to the court, he learned to his amazement that there had been no publication of the numerous orders, regulations or rules in a manner that could conceivably reach the country as a whole. Of course, the newspapers have attempted to keep the country informed but there seems to be no doubt that the number of official pronouncements was too great for any newspaper, however large, to keep track of and publish them all. Consequently, the Associate Justice gave voice to a feeling that has prevailed among newspaper correspondents in Washington for a long time, namely, that the bulk of the citizens of this country were uninformed concerning the vast number of new regulations forthcoming under the New Deal.

It is a regular practice for congress to enact legislation and include in such laws a phrase to this effect:

"Authority to issue regulations carrying out the terms of this law is hereby extended."

That phrase whenever it is included, as it is almost invariably, gives to the rules and regulations, proclamations and pronouncements, the full force and effect of the law itself so long as the administrative promulgations are within the terms of the law itself and within reason. In other words, these become law and they can be sustained by any court that can find the law itself constitutional.

Weighty Problem
The magnitude of the problem with which the President has now determined to deal was suggested recently by a committee of the American Bar association which estimated that in the first year of the NRA alone more than ten thousand pages of such "law" were written by executive authority without adequate provision for notifying the public.

"The total legislative output by or in connection with this one administrative agency," the committee declared, "actually staggers the imagination."

The committee added that any calculation involved guess-work and it concluded after something more than a superficial investigation that between four thousand five hundred and five thousand methods of business conduct were prohibited by the codes and supplemental amendments to codes promulgated by the National Recovery Administration in its brief period of life.

The Brooklyn Institute in a study of the situation has found that in the federal government there are sixty different administrative tribunals which, as the institute's statement said, are "making judicial decisions affecting private rights." The institute's statement added that "these do not proceed according to any single form, do not follow any uniform procedure and do not fit in as integral parts of a coherent or intelligent system."

During the World War there was an official publication issued by the committee on public information which was designed to acquaint the general public with the myriads of orders from the White House, orders from the War and Navy departments, orders from a score of other places, in the hope that public understanding would simplify the administration's problem. That is the only time, as far as I have been able to ascertain, when the production of rules and regulations and administration-made "law" was so great that other than normal press channels had to be used. Mr. Roosevelt said in announcing his decision, that frankly there never had been machinery of government for the publication of such decrees and laws. Obviously now that the Supreme court has called attention to the lack of a central compilation or publication of such orders, something constructive is going to be done about it.

There is, however, a possibility of danger in that course. Attention has been directed here to the threat that, unless careful supervision over such a publication is maintained, some unscrupulous individuals may take advantage of this new avenue of publicity for selfish means. It is to be assumed that Mr. Roosevelt will protect against this potential danger, but I find in many quarters expressions of a fear that the thing may get out of hand unless the President is fully forewarned so that he can be forearmed.

Much significance attaches to the President's projected plan to take the profits out of war.

President's Shrewd Move
It is looked upon by those who know as a very shrewd move, affecting both domestic and international politics. It will be some time before its full import can be placed together in one picture but when that time comes, wiseacres tell me, among the things to be seen will be:

1. Notice to congress that the President is not going to allow the legislative body to run away with things that gain publicity, if the scheme is one in which he desires to participate.

2. Notice to the world that the United States is not going to surrender leadership in world affairs even though the London naval conference has failed and even though Japan has renounced her signature to the Washington arms limitation treaty of 1922.

It is too early to make a guess whether the senators who militantly fought back after Mr. Roosevelt's pronouncement will get anywhere. Those senators were the leaders in the senate committee's munitions investigation. Senator Nye, the committee chairman, with all of the breeze of his North Dakota plains, accused the President in effect of trying to stop the munitions inquiry. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan challenged the President's right to interfere. Each thought, as did some of the other members of the committee who did not become vocal, that Mr. Roosevelt was trying to steal the show because it is a fact that the committee was on the front pages day after day during the investigation.

Some observers here are inclined to the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt will be able to lull the recalcitrant members of congress into a kindly feeling toward his program which is designed to draft far-reaching legislation and that they will eventually hush-up. At this writing I am unwilling to agree fully with that belief.

One must not be unmindful in discussing this little controversy that it can become of great magnitude or it can sink out of sight easily. My own thought is that Mr. Roosevelt's control of congress is not going to be seriously disturbed by it. It is possible, however, that there are enough dissatisfied members of the house and senate to constitute a bloc which will speak its mind collectively as well as individually. If that should come about, there will be fun.

Every once in a while some one discovers some new letters written by George Washington.

Washington a Lobbyist?
Such a circumstance has just developed.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, preparing to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the original corporation from which it came, has found a letter signed by General Washington which, authorities tell me, represents among the first petitions ever filed with a legislative body in behalf of private interests in this country. In fact, if the Washington letter in question were to have been presented to the present-day congress, undoubtedly those in opposition to the general's plan would have described him as a lobbyist. H. O. Bishop, a noted writer and historian here, found in the Library of Congress that General Washington had sought legislation in the general assembly of Virginia in behalf of the Jamestown company, a corporation which in later years was to become the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad company. General Washington interceded with the Virginia assembly on the ground that if the United States ever were to become of consequence as a nation in this world there must be expansion westward and if there were to be expansion there had to be means of transportation.

The general, according to the Library of Congress records, personally surveyed a westward route over which the Jamestown company was to operate. That is the route now followed by the line of the present railroad.

Disclosure of the Washington letter has brought again to the forefront the question of what constitutes lobbying before a legislative body. There are those in this administration, the same as there have been in numerous preceding administrations, who accuse anyone attempting to present his side of the story to a legislative body of being a lobbyist. I believe, however, that the bulk of the people look upon that sort of thing as an exercise of the right of petition.

It will be interesting to note how when the efforts of General Washington in behalf of the Jamestown company are generally known, his exercise of the right of petition will be accepted. Surely even the most ardent reformers will not desire to call the Father of our Country a lobbyist.

© Western Newspaper Union.

The New Year

By Tennyson

"RING out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light.
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

"Ring out the old, ring in the new;
Ring, happy bells, across the sky;
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

"Ring out the grief, that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor;
Ring in redress to all mankind.

"Ring out a slowly dying cause
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

"Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out, my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

"Ring out false pride in place of blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right;
Ring in the common love of good.

"Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

"Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land;
Ring in the Christ that is to be."

Leave It to Nancy

A New Year Story
By Charles Frederick Wadsworth

IT WAS 11:00 p. m., December 31. Salesmen of the "Speedway 6" stood in groups discussing the bonus contest of the year—an extra $1,000 to the salesman with the greatest cash total, exclusive of trade-in credits.

For several months, first one salesman had topped the blackboard in the salesmen's room, then another. But gradually it became evident that the race was to be between Mark Bertman and Jerry Gayle, leading the others handsomely.

Some of the boys insisted that Mark's deals were not always ethical. Others said, "Get the business!"

But for Jerry's clean-cut methods there was only admiration, though it seemed that Mark would win.

Jerry left a sympathetic group, went to the telephone and dialed a number. "Hello! Nancy?" His voice was unenthusiastic. "Mark is up three hundred and ninety dollars on me, and there is less than an hour to go. I'm sunk!"

Nancy's voice came back to him encouragingly. "Hold everything and leave it to Nancy!"

Jerry hung up, wondering, but strangely revived. Nancy was such a good little sport.

At 11:42 Nancy breezed into the show room and motioned Jerry over to a sport roadster.

"How much?" "Eight Hundred and Fifty Dollars."

"How much?" She asked.

"Eight hundred and fifty dollars," said Jerry. Understanding dawned upon him.

Nancy wrote a check for the amount. "Make out the papers," she said. "I want to drive it away."

By that time the whole sales force had gathered around, including the distributor, Walker.

The transaction completed, Nancy settled herself at the wheel and sped out the exit.

Walker extended his hand to Jerry. "You win, Jerry! Congratulations!"

Anderson, another salesman, remarked to Smith "Did you get that? She planks down eight hundred and fifty to help Jerry win a thousand, which will pay for the car and leave a hundred and fifty over!"

"What of it?" asked Smith. "Who is that little peach?"

"Why, she is merely Jerry's future wife. They are to be married tomorrow—or rather, today. By the way, a happy New Year, and all clean deals!"

© Western Newspaper Union.

Scene of Exile of St. John Draws Pilgrims

Patmos, Patmo, Patino, Palmo, Palmosa—the island is known by each of these names—is a fifteen-square-mile spot of land at the northern end of the Dodecanese archipelago, shaped somewhat like a sea horse, says the National Geographic society.

The island's deeply indented coastline affords many safe anchorages for vessels, but there is only one gateway—a well-protected bay about midway of the eastern coast, at the head of which is the port of Scala, the only large town on the island. Its flat-roofed, white-walled cottages occupied by native fisherfolk, house the greater portion of Patmos' 4,000 inhabitants.

The traveler who is searching for scenic beauty and knows nothing of the history of Patmos would be disappointed in the island. For the most part it is rocky, tawny, and infertile. Only scrubby bushes and a few trees manage to draw sustenance from the soil. Water is scarce.

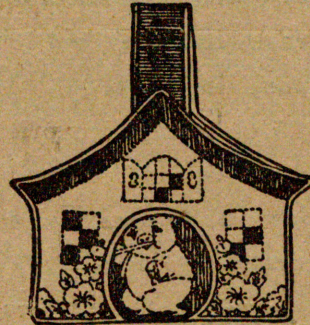

But Patmos is not without fame. In the Dark Ages the island was uninhabited. In A. D. 95 Domitian exiled St. John the Evangelist there and, unknowingly, put Patmos on the map. The monastery of St. John, on a high hill back of the town, and the cave where guides declare St. John received a heavenly vision and wrote the Apocalypse, have drawn many pilgrims. Of interest also are many of the island's 300 or more churches—nearly one for each dozen inhabitants. Some of the churches are mere huts with domes topped by crosses. Larger ones contain wood carvings and paintings.

The monastery, built in the Eleventh century, resembles a fortress rather than a religious institution. The traveler is welcomed at the gate by a bearded monk in a long black robe and queer, stove-pipe hat and led to the guest house, where he may remain for three days without charge. There are no hotels on Patmos, and unless one finds a vacant room in a cottage in the town, he usually accepts the monk's hospitality.

The monastery has many interesting frescoes of religious subjects, and carved oaken panels. The library has about 250 valuable oaken panels. The library has about 250 valuable manuscripts, one of the most important of which is a Sixth century copy of the Gospel of St. Mark written on purple vellum in silver letters with the names of God and Christ in gold. The monastery has 36 leaves of the manuscript. Other portions are in the Vatican and the British museum. The monastery treasury contains a spectacular collection of richly jeweled crosses, crowns, mitres, pastoral staves and liturgical vestments.

POT HOLDER SET IN THREE PIECES

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

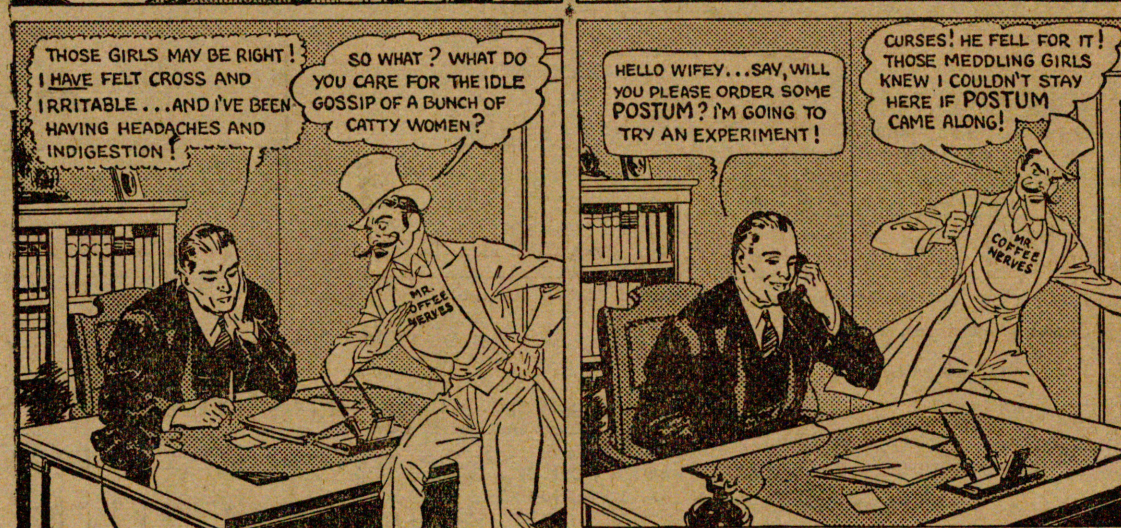

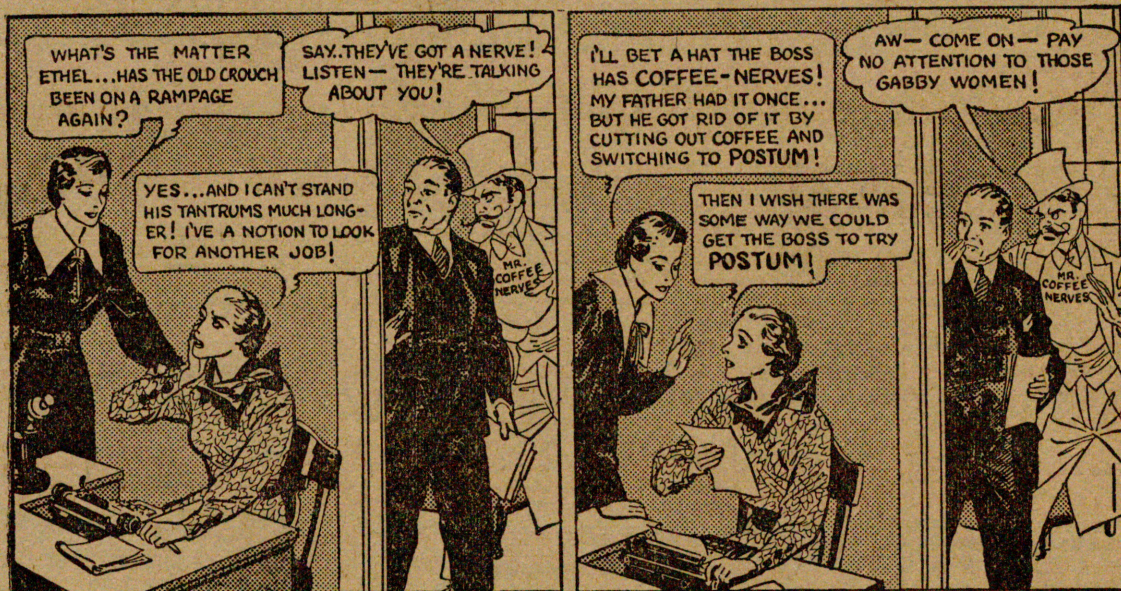

Pot holders are necessary in the kitchen, and it's just as easy to make an attractive pot holder as a plain one. They are interesting and easy to make, in spare time, and some should always be worked up ready to take as a gift when a trifle is wanted in a hurry and you know it will be appreciated.

Package No. A-8 is composed of three pieces. Two pot holders and one container. When made up, the holder is visible through door, as shown above. The holders are placed in pocket through top opening. The material is stamped and stenciled in colors, ready to be made up, and the lines may be outlined if desired. Directions are also given how to put it together.

Send 15c if you want the set. Address—Home Craft Co., Dept. A—Nineteenth and St. Louis Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Enclose a stamped addressed envelope when writing for any information.

Mr. COFFEE - NERVES finds out who is boss

SCHOOL LIFE IN PRUSSIA

What to do when school is finished is no problem for the boys and girls of Prussia. The problem has been settled for them by the government. Under provisions of a new law, says a correspondent in the Chicago Tribune, Prussian boys and girls, on completing school, must spend one year as students of practical agriculture. They are sent to the various farms of the country and become regular farm hands. They take an active part in the plowing, sowing of seed, care of growing crops and harvesting. The plan serves a twofold purpose. The farmers are provided with adequate help in producing their crops, and the young people gain a first-hand knowledge of modern farming methods. Many of the students remain to take up farming as a life work.

Of Course

"Who originated that expression 'Get a load of this?'"
"Some coal salesman, I suppose."

COLDS
Creomulsion

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

To quickly allay skin irritations or hurts, depend on soothing Resinol

Wanted—Organizers for strictly Protestant fraternal, nothing radical, commission basis, fraternal references first letter or no attention. Gretzinger, Real Estate Trust Bldg., Phila., Pa.

ARE YOU IN LOVE?

You can be happy! You can marry your chosen man! Amazing new 10 week course unfolds the TECHNIQUE of courtship. Also your OWN problem answered sympathetically! GIRL! WIN AT LOVE and happiness. $2 for complete fascinating course. Money back if unsatisfied.

ROMANCE ASSOCIATES
Box 150, Station D, New York City.

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION
ENCLOSE STAMP
JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KANS.

MANY PEOPLE, of course, can safely drink coffee. But there are thousands and thousands of others who cannot. And, without realizing it, you may be one of these.

The caffeine in coffee may be working night and day to rob you of sleep, upset your digestion, or undermine your nervous system.

If you suspect that coffee disagrees with you... switch to POSTUM for 30 days. Postum is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It is a delicious drink—and contains nothing that can possibly harm you. It is economical and easy to prepare. A product of General Foods.

FREE—Let us send you your first week's supply of POSTUM—FREE. Simply mail the coupon.

GENERAL FOODS, Battle Creek, Mich. W. N. U. 12-20-34
Please send me, without cost or obligation, a week's supply of Postum.
Name _____
Street _____
City _____ State _____
Fill in completely—print name and address
Offer expires July 1, 1935

THE NEWS-BULLETIN

WM. SEMMLER, Editor & Publisher

Published Every Friday at MOKENA, ILLINOISEntered as second class matter at the postoffice at Mokena, Illinois, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.A. M. Levy, Advertising Representative,
6 North Michigan ave., Chicago

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1934

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Cows, 1 fresh and 3 heavy springers; Guernseys and Swiss. D. Buckley, 159th St. near railroad tracks, Oak Forest. 2tp

FOR SALE—2 old geese and gander. Louis Lauffer, Mokena, Ill. Tel. 23-J1. 3tp

FOR SALE—Young Hollstein bull; pure bred Percheron stallion, about 1800. Elmer Woodcock, Mokena. 2p

LOST—St. Bernard dog Wednesday Color light brown and white; wgt. 125 lbs. Herman Maihoff, Tinley Park, Ill. Tel. 211-W. 2tn

FOR SALE—Team bay colts coming three in spring. Emil Groth, Stellwagen farm, Mokena, Ill. 2tp

FOR RENT—Excellent barbershop and beauty shop location on Oak Park avenue in Tinley Park. Former barber quit due to illness. Shop can be rented with or without fixtures. Inquire Geo. Schreiber, Tinley Park, Ill. 2tc

PIANO MANUFACTURER will turn over credit of $275 paid by former customer on beautiful Cable Grand Piano now stored near Mokena. Like new; continue small monthly payments. Write Credit Mgr., P. O. Box 137, Chicago, Ill. 12-5c

WE BUY and sell dogs and puppies. Smitty's Dog Farm, 123rd and Archer Ave., Lemont, Illinois. 52p

COAL FOR SALE: Lots of heat, low ash, excellent substitute for Pocahontas, Black Gold, lump or egg, $6.00; Mine run, $5.75; Screenings, $4.75. Grundy Mining Co. Cedarcrest 1131. 1cL

NEW LENOX

The New Lenox Bible church held Christmas services Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Stockley.

Mrs. Amos Bruns is ill with scarlet fever. Her son who has also been ill for a few weeks is now convalescing.

Dinner guests in the Dorothy Osmus home on Christmas day were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Batson of Joliet, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown and sons Douglas, Wesley and Wayne.

At a recent meeting of the Golden Rule camp of the Royal Neighbors, Mrs. David Lockwood in whose home the camp held meetings for the past year was presented a lace table cloth in appreciation for her hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haynes had as Christmas and holiday week guests Mrs. Ruth Johnson, Miss Edith Johnson and Robert Johnson of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brisbane entertained the following guests on Christmas: Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Carman of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schluntz of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kramer, sons Ralph and Laverne and daughter Vivian and Mrs. Mary Parks, all of Joliet.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Crawford and daughter, Merna Mae, accompanied by Frank Crawford of Manhattan left Tuesday for Jacksonville Florida where they will spend the winter.

Last Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Osmus entertained members of the New Lenox band and their parents at a Christmas party. Dr. Otto Mattei, of Joliet director of the band was presented a gift. The evening was spent informally and refreshments were served.

Christmas guests in the home of Mrs. Lillian McCleary were her mother, Mrs. Ellen Westphal of Letts, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. John Lorber of Davenport, Iowa; Miss Dorothy and Robert McCleary.

Mrs. William Shepley who has been ill for sometime, is improving.

MOKENA

Buddy and Babe Rinke are ill with chicken pox.

Charles Burkhardt and Fred Rauch are ill with the flu. Fred Hentsch is driving the oil truck.

Mrs. Mary Mau suffered a bad fall when she was seized with a fainting spell in her home Thursday.

The Mokena public school will reopen January 2nd.

Money spent here
for printing buysQuality
Work

GO TO

Morry's Tavern,
Mokena, Illinois
for a good time
New Year's Eve
FREE EATSExperience has proved to us thatGlobe
FEEDS

Are best.

Home Town Egg Mash$2.15
Rival Egg Mash$2.40
Rival Poultry Scratch$2.15Grover C. Elmore
Poultry Co.177th and OAK PARK AVE.,
Tel. Tinley Park 100

FREE BOOK about STOMACH TROUBLE

Explains the marvelous Willard Treatment which is bringing amazing relief. Sold on ironclad money-back guarantee.

PRICELESS INFORMATION—for those suffering from STOMACH OR DIGESTIVE TROUBLE, ACID DYSPEPSIA, SOUR STOMACH, GAS, NERVOUSNESS, HEARTBURN, CONSTIPATION, BAD BREATH, SLEEPLESSNESS OR HEAD-ACHES, DUE TO EXCESS ACID.

Ask for a free copy of Willard's Message. We are Authorized Willard Dealers.

R. Hensel, Mokena, Ill.

TINLEY PARK

In Memoriam

In memory of my beloved husband Louis Goessel who passed away one year ago, January 2nd, 1934: He is not dead, but sleeping. The loved for whom we mourn, At rest in Christ's strong keeping, No longer trouble worn.

LOVING WIFE AND SON

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lorenz of Chicago Heights, a son Dec. 17th. "Granpa" George Lorenz is wearing a big smile now.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Hedler entertained the following guest on Christmas: Rev. Mr. Hedler's brother Albert of Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Hedler is a very successful cranberry grower and has the distinction of having developed the largest single cranberry bog in the United States.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Scholl and son James of River Forest.

Wm. Scheer is quite ill at his home.

Mrs. Brodthun is very ill in the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Hopman. Mrs. Brodthun has been in poor health for sometime.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boldt spent Christmas in Gary, Indiana with the latter's parents.

William Rick who has been on the sick list is improving.

Mrs. R. Gonia and daughter Dorothy spent Christmas day with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt in Chicago. All enjoyed a big turkey dinner and all the trimmings.

Mr. Gonia was not there but was remembered by mother by plenty of turkey being sent home. More in fact than he could have consumed had he been there.

Dick Swisher who is attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Swisher.

While Wm. Chappel was returning home from work Saturday night his car skidded on an icy pavement and was ditched. Luckily Mr. Chappel escaped injury.

George Schreiber spent Christmas in Chicago with his son Henry and family.

While Henry Boldt was driving on Oak Park avenue south of town Monday morning his car was ditched and in trying to get out of the snow Mr. Boldt did not realize how cold it was until his feet were frost bitten. An application of snow took out the frost bites.

WEST'S CAR

Have you seen it? No. Then you haven't seen anything yet. Some morning when you feel kind of crabby, come on out and stand in front of the drug store and watch West come tearing, bumping and snorting over the railroad tracks on the last lap of his daily frenzied, death defying trip to get his wife safely on the morning train. You know West is never bothered about the water in his radiator. He just does not use any. He says it wouldn't hold straw. The fan has not moved for so long that it is rusted solid. Mr. West is now considering removing entirely such a nuisance as radiator and fan. According to his scientific calculations, the speed of his demon buggy will be stepped up 10 miles per hour with the removal of this obnoxious wind resistor. So I warn you. Take a good hold of your nerves. Pack all your courage with you as you may be thankful for this precaution if some fine morning you see West's faceless devil come charging down on you. The only air cooled motor car in Tinley Park. Hail to Mr. West! for such a worthy contribution to the fixed assets of our fair town.

Prescription
Prices

NO PRESCRIPTION is cheap, even though it costs less money, if in the preparation of it any necessary care has been omitted.

Medicine is needed at a critical time when health, or possibly life, is at stake. If quality is sacrificed; if accuracy is not guarded; if expert knowledge or skill is not employed, be the price ever so low, it becomes a tragically expensive prescription. The highest-paid medical skill and most carefully planned prescription may be completely nullified by unscrupulousness at the compounding desk.

Our prescription prices are in conformity with the services we render. You pay only for what you get; prompt service, professional skill in dispensing, and the purest drugs obtainable.

PHONE—TINLEY PARK 88

Tinley Park
Drug Store

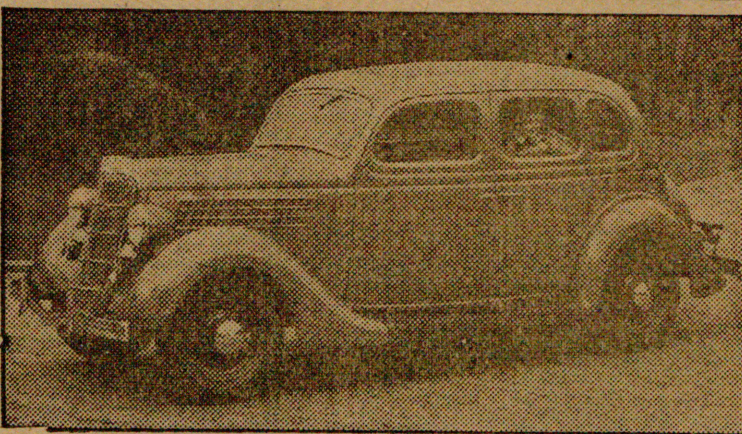

TINLEY PARK, ILL.

Eve Party, Dec. 31

ROAST TURKEY DANCING
JOHN BURKHART
ORLAND PARK, ILLINOIS

NEW FORD V-8 CAR ON DISPLAY

Saturday, Dec. 29

At our Show Room. Every one invited to see the much talked about New Ford.

COOPER & HOSTERT

MOKENA, ILLINOIS

FRANKFORT

Mr. and Mrs. George Geuther, Sr., entertained at a six o'clock dinner Christmas evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Weber of Manhattan, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Guether and daughter also of Manhattan, Mr. and Mrs. George Eisenbrandt and family of Frankfort, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lembke and daughter of Frankfort and Marie Geuther of Joliet.

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Peter's Evangelical church held their meeting and coffee Thursday afternoon and evening.

Self-Knowledge

A well-known clergyman says every man should keep a diary so that he may know himself. The average man knows himself well enough to be certain that if he started a diary he wouldn't keep it up.

SPECIAL SALE

Dec. 28 to Jan. 1st

SUGAR PURE CANE 10 LBS.	51c
PEAS, BLOSSOM, No. 2 Two for	25c
CORN W. C. No. 2 Two for	25c
TOMATOES, DELLWOOD No. 2 Two for	21c
BEANS, WAX OR GREEN No. 2 Two for	19c
CORNFLAKES, LARGE 2 for	23c
CRACKERS OR GRAHAM A1 Two pounds	20c
GRAHAM FLOUR 5 pounds for	27c
CORN MEAL FLOUR, 5 pounds for	25c
TOILET TISSUE, 1000 sheets 2 for	9c
FLANNEL SHIRTS	$1.39
JACKETS BLANKET LINED,	$1.49

Geo. F. Wannemacher

Phone 30

MOKENA, ILLINOIS

News Among the Churches

ORLAND PARK CHURCHES
CHRIST LUTHERAN CHURCH
(A changeless Christ for a Changing World)Orland Park, Illinois
Rev. A. Lach, Pastor

Bible Hour and Sunday School at 9:00 a. m.

Divine services in English at 10 a. m. During this service a class of confirmands will be the rites of confirmation, be received into the communion membership of the church.

On New Year's eve the church bells will invite our congregation and its churchless friends of the community to assemble in God's House and here to spend the last evening of 1934 in a God pleasing way receiving God's blessing and strength for the New Year. This service which will be conducted in the English language will begin at 7:45 p. m. Preparatory service for our communicants and confirmands will begin at 7:15 p. m.

On New Year's Day there will be English Services at 10:00 a. m.

German New Year's Service and the celebration of Holy Communion will take place on the first Sunday in the New Year, Jan. 6 at 10:00 a. m.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH
Father Wm. Gorey
Mass each Sunday morning at 7 a. m., and 9 a. m.MOKENA CHURCHES
IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH
W. J. Geffert, Pastor
Sunday School 9:00 a. m.
English service on first, third and fifth Sunday at 10:00 a. m. German service on 2nd and 4th Sunday at 10 a. m.MOKENA M. E. CHURCH
Rev. Walter Gray, MinisterST. MARY CATHOLIC CHURCH
Rev. Father Roman, O. F. M.
Mass 1st Sunday in month 7 and 9 a. m. Other Sundays 9 a. m.ST. JOHN'S EVAN. CHURCH
Mokena, Illinois
Rev. Theo. M. Haefele, Pastor
Mildred Woodrich, organist,
Milton Woodrich, Sunday School Superintendent.Friday, Dec. 28 Choir rehearsal at the home of Mrs. Pauline Krapp.
Saturday, Dec. 29—Confirmation Class session at 9 a. m. in the parlors of the church.

Sunday, Dec. 30th—Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Morning worship at 10:30 a. m.

Monday, Dec. 31st—Watch night services.

Wednesday, Jan. 2nd—Annual congregational meeting in the church at 1 p. m. Everyone is urged to be present.

FRANKFORT M. E. CHURCH
C. F. Schellhase, Pastor.Miss Eva Jean Pfaff, organist.
Mrs. Wesley Hollstein, Choir Director.Mr. Urban Schellhase, Sunday School Superintendent.
New Year's services at 9:30 a. m., Special music by the choir.
Sunday school at 10:30 a. m.
Ladies Aid will meet at the church, Thursday, Jan. 3 at 1:30 p. m. Mmes. Della Lorenzen and Alvin Hill will entertain.Catechetical instruction, Saturday Jan. 5th at 2:30 p. m.
Epworth League social and business meeting, Thursday, Jan. 3 at 7:30 p. m.GREEN GARDEN M. E. CHURCH
C. F. Schellhase, PastorMiss Emma Andres, Organist.
Mrs. C. F. Schellhase, choir director.Mr. Edwin Bettmerhausen, Sunday School Superintendent.
Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.
Divine worship at 10:45 a. m.

The pastor will preach his New Year's message. Special music by the choir.

The Green Garden young people sponsored a play Thursday Dec. 27. The chorus choir and the Ladies chorus sang several musical selections.

Catechetical instruction, Saturday, Jan. 5th at 10:30 a. m.

ORLAND PARK M. E. CHURCH
(A Friendly Church)
Rev. John Mullen, PastorChurch School Sup't., George Munch; Pianist, Lois Ludwig; Choir Director, Royal Glahn.
9:30 a. m. Church School
10:45 a. m. Divine Worship.

6:30 p. m. Intermediate and Senior League.

ST. PETER'S EVANG. CHURCH
Rev. G. Gerhold, Pastor.
Frankfort, IllinoisSunday, Dec. 30
Regular service with celebration of Holy communion at the close of both services.Monday evening, Dec. 31
A five hour program will be rendered by the Young people's department of the Bible school which will culminate in a Midnight Candle service. Special music by the orchestra.Tuesday, January 1, German Services at 10 a. m.
Wednesday, January 2, Regular annual congregational meeting at 7:30 p. m.

TINLEY PARK CHURCHES

TINLEY PARK CATHOLIC CHURCH
Father Boyle, Pastor
Mass every Sunday at 8:30 a. m.EV. LUTHERAN ZION CHURCH
Tinley Park, Illinois
Alb. Buddenhagen, Pastor.

Sunday, Dec. 30, English service at 10:30 a. m.

Monday, Dec. 31—German service at 8:00 p. m.
Tuesday, Jan. 1 - English service at 10:30 a. m.Sunday, Jan. 6—English service at 10:30 a. m.
Sunday School at 9:00 a. m.

Wednesday, Jan. 9 - Ladies Aid meeting at 2:00 p. m.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Oak Park Ave. and 159th St.,
Wm. Greve, Pastor.TINLEY PARK M. E. CHURCHES
Rev. Chas. H. Hedler, PastorTinley Park English M. E. church
C. L. Gardner, Sunday School Superintendent.Miss Luella Foskett, Organist
Services at Tinley Park M. E. at 9:30 a. m.Sunday School 10:30 a. m.
Tinley Park German M. E. Church
H. J. Bettenhausen, Sunday School Superintendent.Sunday School at 9:30 a. m.
Miss Ruth Andres, Organist.
Preaching service 10:45 a. m.Who Says
That Nobody
Loves a
Policeman?There is one thing sure... that isn't true so far, at least, as Officer Finney is concerned.You know Finney—Finney of the Force—whose comical adventures are portrayed for readers of this paper by Ted O'Loughlin, brilliant young artist.This genial copper gets a lot of fun out of the things that happen day by day as he travels his beat, and the fun is passed on to you as you read of his activities.Have a laugh with Finney and tell your friends about him.

Important Waterway

The Suez canal, opened in 1869, has a length of 101 miles, and a minimum width of 147 feet, 8 inches. The maximum draught of water allowed for vessels using the canal is 32 feet. The average time for transit through the canal is 15 hours 20 minutes. The canal is owned by a company, and Great Britain holds a controlling interest in the company.